OUR TELEGRAMS FROM HARRISBURGH.

HARRISBURGH, Penn., Tuesday, June 16—1 A. M.

Everything looks very gloomy here.

The indications are that the rebels will be within sight of Harrisburgh to-morrow, and in the absence of troops to stop the advance of the rebels, the destruction of all the bridges along the Susquehanna is inevitable.

The troops, as fast as they reach this city and report for duty, are sent to the different fords on the river, where works are being constructed to prevent the crossing of the rebels.

The hills on the opposite side of the river are illuminated by the fires of the working parties engaged in throwing up intrenchments.

The attempts to get troops from Washington have failed, and all the energies of the State must be directed toward arresting the progress of the rebels.

The rebels must not be allowed to cross the Susquehanna River.

The country south of the river there is no hope of saving from devastation and pillage.

HARRISBURGH, Tuesday, June 16—1 P. M.

The telegraph operator at London, Franklin County, reports that our pickets brought in a rebel prisoner this morning, who reported that the rebels were in heavy force in the Cumberland Valley.

The Bedford telegraph operator reports that a scout has just come in, who says that the rebels are at Cumberland with a force of 6,000 cavalry. There are no Union troops there.

There is no one at Cumberland to resist them. The citizens are flying.

HARRISBURGH, Tuesday, June 16—2 P. M.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company received a dispatch stating that the rebels were within nine miles of Carlisle at noon to-day.

The State House bell in this city will be rung this afternoon to call the people to arms.

The public are awakening to a sense of the crisis.

CARLISLE NOT YET CAPTURED.

HARRISBURGH, Tuesday, June 16, 1863.

The telegraph offices at Carlisle and Shippensburgh are still open, and business is transacted with them as usual. As Shippensburgh is twenty miles beyond Carlisle, it is evident that the rebels are not advancing with much rapidity, and there is to-night a fair prospect of securing the Capital against attack, if the rebels advance so far.

OUR TELEGRAMS FROM PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Tuesday, June 16.

Dispatches from Harrisburgh to the Inquirer and Press, of this city, dated at 2 o'clock this morning, confirm the report of the capture of Chambersburgh by the rebels.

The rebels occupied Hagerstown at noon yesterday. From there they advanced in three columns—one on the main road to Chambersburgh, and one to the right, and one to the left. Each column has five thousand cavalry, besides infantry and artillery.

The centre column arrived at Chambersburgh at 9 o'clock last night.

Gov. CURTIN telegraphs as follows:

"HARRISBURGH, June 15.

The telegraph operator left Chambersburgh at 9 o'clock to-night, some time after the rebels had entered the town. His instrument is now in operation five miles east of Chambersburgh, at Scotland Bridge.

A. G. CURTIN."

The operator from Chambersburgh says that a great panic now raging at Greencastle. The column that entered Greencastle consisted of 5,000 cavalry, supported by infantry and artillery.

The fire at Greencastle is believed to indicate a determination on the part of the rebels to burn, plunder and destroy our cities.

Gov. CURTIN and Gen. COUCH are working night and day. On the receipt of the news of the destruction of Greencastle, the Governor ordered the bells rung, and the people assembled en masse at the Court-house to devise means to defend the city. It is evident that something must be done immediately or the State capital will be invaded.

All the important documents of the Capitol are being removed to a place of safety, in case of an evacuation being rendered necessary. The principal money securities have already been transferred.

Gen. HAUPTMAN writes to Gov. CURTIN, from Washington, to the effect that STUART's cavalry may be in Harrisburgh by Tuesday, or, at farthest, by Wednesday morning, and that his object will be mainly plunder and the destruction of all the public and private property they may lay their hands on.

Gen. COUCH is superintending military matters.

Governor CURTIN and Hon. THOMAS A. SCOTT, who is aiding the Governor, have organized the troops of the State, and have held communication with Washington. They have received the tender of the services of the New-York Seventh Regiment and secured the railroad transportation.

A network of fortifications is thrown up beyond the Susquehanna.

It is rumored in political circles that the Democratic Convention, which is to meet on Wednesday, will adjourn and the members will take up arms in defence of the State.

The members of the Select and Common Council of Philadelphia are to meet this afternoon at four o'clock, to take into consideration matters pertaining to the defence of the State and city.

PHILADELPHIA, Tuesday, June 16.

The reports from Harrisburgh state that the rebels are at Carlisle, which is only eighteen miles from Harrisburgh.

Business is mostly suspended in this city.

A battery of six brass pieces, with sixty men, left the Navy-yard this morning for Harrisburgh.

Recruiting parties are parading the streets, but no troops have yet started from here for the seat of war.

It is thought Philadelphia can be better defended on the Susquehanna than at any other point.

PHILADELPHIA, Tuesday, June 16.

The city is alive with excitement to-day.

The news of the rebel advance on Pennsylvania, has caused a most profound sensation.

Intelligence is most eagerly looked for from the interior.

In view of the pressing emergency, Mayor HENRY issued the following proclamation to-day:

OFFICE OF THE MAYOR OF THE CITY OF PHILADELPHIA, TWELVE O'CLOCK, NOON, June 16, 1863.

Citizens of Philadelphia:

In view of the urgent need for instant action to protect the Capital of your State, and to secure the safety of your own homes, I do hereby earnestly appeal to all citizens to close their places of business, and to connect themselves without delay with the existing military organizations for the defence of the City.

ALEXANDER HENRY, Mayor of Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Tuesday, June 16—P. M.

At a meeting of the Bounty Fund Committee, it was resolved that $10 in addition to the Government pay, be appropriated for each officer and private of every military company that is now or may be organized in Philadelphia and received into the service of the State, or of the United States, for any length of time that they may be required for the present emergency, provided that said amount hereby appropriated shall not exceed the sum of $150,000.

The Bank Presidents have tendered the Governor a loan of a million of dollars to aid in raising and equipping a force to repel the invaders.

A special meeting of the City Councils will be held this afternoon.

The Twentieth regiment, Col. THOMAS, will leave for Harrisburgh to-morrow.

Recruiting is exceedingly brisk. All the old military organizations are recruiting.

There are arms at the City Arsenal to arm 6,000 men.

A howitzer battery of six pieces, Capt. E. SPENCER MILLER, was shipped to Harrisburgh last night, while a 20-pounder Parrott battery which, it is expected, be shipped under the control of the Keystone artillery.

To-day, ammunition will be brought from the magazine, so that the troops will leave in complete trim for action.

The muskets and rifles in the armory have all undergone thorough inspection, and are in perfect order.

PHILADELPHIA, Tuesday, June 16.

A letter from Harrisburgh, dated 1 P. M., says a train of 100 wagons, which left Martinsburgh Sunday, arrived safely. The rebel advance this morning was five miles east of Chambersburgh. Col. SMITH, commanding at Hagerstown, had a fight an hour and a half yesterday, when he was surrounded and forced to surrender. The banks removed their deposits yesterday, and the State archives are being removed to Philadelphia.

The Democratic Convention will not assemble here to-morrow. A number of the Western delegates refused to come further than Altoona, and returned home. Hundreds of people are arriving from the south side of the river, bringing in all their horses, cattle and other valuables.

Working parties are engaged in preparing the works of defence on the opposite side of the river. Good resistance could be made if troops were here to man the guns.

Government officials expect the arrival of the rebels to-night or to-morrow morning. If they reach here so soon, there will be little prospect of a successful defence. But, if delayed, thousands will reach here within twenty-four hours, as the country is thoroughly aroused.

At a meeting last evening, Gen. CAMERON blamed the Government for not sending men to aid in the defence of the capital, when Pennsylvania had so liberally contributed men and money for carrying on the war. He said while he had every confidence in the present commander of the Department, such men as McCLELLAN, or FRANKLIN, whose leadership the people had every confidence in, would rally to their standard every loyal man. He called upon the Governor to send for McCLELLAN to take charge of the militia of the State.

Every train for the East is packed with refugees and goods belonging to merchants.

AN APPEAL FROM GOV. CURTIN.

HARRISBURGH, Penn., June 16.

To the People of Philadelphia:

For nearly a week past it has been publicly known that the rebels in force were about to enter Pennsylvania.

On the 12th inst., an urgent call was made on the people to raise a Departmental army corps for the defence of the State.

Yesterday, under the Proclamation of the President, the militia were called out.

To-day a new and pressing invitation has been given to furnish men to repel the invasion.

Philadelphia has not responded; meanwhile, the enemy is six miles this side of Chambersburgh, and advancing rapidly.

Our Capital is threatened, and we may be disgraced by its fall, while the men who should be driving the outlaws from our soil are quibbling about the possible term of service for six months.

It never was intended to keep them beyond the continuance of the emergency.

You all know this by what happened when the militia were called out last Autumn.

Yet then trusted your Government and were not deceived. Trust it again now.

I will accept men without reference to the six months' term.

If you do not wish to bear the ignominy of shirking from the defence of your State come forward at once.

Close your places of business and apply your hearts to the work.

Come in such organizations as you can form.

Gen. COUCH has appointed Lieut.-Col. RUFF to superintend your organizations. Report to him immediately.

A. G. CURTIN.

PROCLAMATION OF THE MAYOR OF THE CITY OF PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, June 15.

Citizens of Philadelphia: Pennsylvania has to-day been again invaded by the rebel forces, who already are ruthlessly laying waste all within their reach by fire and sword. Your services are urgently and instantly needed to aid in checking the advancing foe, and to drive them beyond our borders. In this sudden emergency the protection of our State must come mainly from its own people, and the success of their efforts, under the favor of Almighty God, will greatly depend upon the zeal and promptness with which they answer the call made upon them by the President.

In pursuance of instructions from the Governor, I do hereby urge upon all citizens who are willing to join in the defence of their State, and in the shielding of their own homes from rapine, to organize without delay and proceed forthwith to Harrisburgh. And I do further request that the commanding officers of all military bodies will have their respective commands in readiness for any orders that may be issued.

Citizens, the honor and safety of Philadelphia and of Pennsylvania are in imminent peril. Let no one refuse his help in this their hour of need.

ALEXANDER HENRY, Mayor of Philadelphia.

OUR TELEGRAMS FROM BALTIMORE.

BALTIMORE, Tuesday, June 16.

Gov. BRADFORD has issued a proclamation calling upon the citizens of Baltimore, and people of Maryland, to rally to defend their soil from invasion.

As there is no organized militia force in the State, he announces that he will fall back upon the recent enrollment for the draft, but he hopes there is patriotism sufficient among our people to raise the force needed from voluntary enlistments.

The Governor urges immediate action.

There is no later news from the Upper Potomac.

The City Councils were convened at 12 o'clock last night, and met this morning to devise ways and means to cooperate with the Governor of the State and Commanding General of this Department, to raise the city's portion of the 10,000 men called for to repel the invasion.

BALTIMORE, Tuesday, June 16.

There is much excitement here, and there are many rumors of rebel cavalry being seen at various points within twenty or thirty miles of this city.

Several of the old military organizations of Baltimore will, it is thought, be revived immediately, and their ranks filled up by volunteers.

There are many military movements in progress, and rumors of others, but they cannot be mentioned from prudential motives.

The people of Baltimore feel that the effort of the Government to protect Washington will necessarily include Baltimore; but, nevertheless, there are encouraging evidences of a determination on the part of our people to rally at once to repel the invasion.

MOVEMENTS OF NEW-YORK TROOPS.

ALBANY, Tuesday, June 16.

The Governor is receiving urgent messages from the authorities of Pennsylvania asking for troops, and is doing everything possible to hurry them forward. Gov. CURTIN advises that they be shipped via Easton.

Secretary SEWARD telegraphs that the men will not be needed for more than 30 days, and probably not for that period; that arms will be supplied to them at Harrisburgh, and that they report to Gen. COUCH.

Gen. McCLELLAN arrived here at 4¼ o'clock this afternoon, coming up on the Harlem road, and proceeded directly to Gov. SEYMOUR's residence. They They are in consultation together this evening.

The Seventh, Eleventh, Thirteenth, Twenty-eighth, Thirty-seventh, Forty-seventh, Sixty-fifth, Sixty-seventh, Sixty-eighth, Sixty-ninth, Seventy-first and Seventy-fourth regiments are under marching orders. The Seventh and Seventy-first regiments will leave to-night. Marching orders will also be issued to 1,500 volunteers at New-Dorp, 800 at Rochester, and 500 at Plattsburgh.

ALBANY, Tuesday, June 16.

Gen. McCLELLAN is in Albany for the purpose of aiding Gov. SEYMOUR in organizing and sending forward troops for the defence of Pennsylvania. About 14,000 men are already secured, and they are beginning to go forward. The following additional militia regiments are under orders to move: the Eighth, the Twenty-second and the Fifty-sixth. The Twenty-second, the Thirtieth and the Thirty-fourth regiments Volunteers (here waiting to be mustered out) offer their services.

TROOPS FROM NEW-JERSEY.

TRENTON, N. J., Tuesday, June 16.

A dispatch was received here last night by the Governor of New-Jersey from the Governor of Pennsylvania, asking for the nine months' New-Jersey men, now about to be mustered out of the service, to come on to Harrisburgh.

The Colonel of the Twenty-third New-Jersey Regiment, now at Beverley, telegraphed that his regiment had consented to go to the relief of Pennsylvania.

It is expected that other regiments will do the same.

The Twenty-first New-Jersey Regiment, which arrived here yesterday, was handsomely entertained by the authorities of this city.

The citizens talk of holding a public meeting in reference to raising troops to go at once to Pennsylvania.

PROCLAMATION OF GOV. PARKER.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, TRENTON, N. J., June 16.

A Proclamation.

BOSTON, Tuesday, June 16.

In the absence of Gov. ANDREW, no definite action has yet been taken to organize volunteers for immediate service. You know the roads and the passes. Show yourselves to be worthy of your sires, who gave you the inestimable blessings of freedom and Independence.

F. H. PIERPOINT, Governor.

THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

MOVEMENTS OF GENERAL HOOKER.

Our Forces Hold the Line of the Rappahannock Until Monday Night.

A MOVEMENT TO FAIRFAX STATION.

Possibility of Another Great Battle of Bull Run.

Removal of the Stores from Aquia Creek.

CANNONADING AT THOROUGHFARE GAP.

It is ascertained that Gen. HOOKER's Headquarters left the station, near Falmouth, on the morning of the 14th, and proceeded toward Dumfries, where there was a rest for the night.

At an early hour Monday morning, they proceeded on the road to Fairfax Station, where they probably arrived on Monday night.

Previous to the departure of Gen. HOOKER, the Sixth corps, which lay on both sides of the river below Fredericksburgh (those on the south side having previously been withdrawn under cover of the darkness, and the pontoon bridges safely landed and conveyed to the rear,) proceeded northward, and reached the vicinity of Dumfries on Sunday night.

Belle Plain and Aquia Creek were evacuated, and all public property not then shipped or otherwise secured. The effects destroyed were such as were not worth removal.

Up to Monday morning our army held the line of the Rappahannock from Banks' Ford to Kelly's Ford, the rear being protected by sufficient troops to hold the enemy at bay, should they attempt to cross the river below.

On Sunday evening, at 7 o'clock, cannonading was heard in the direction of Thoroughfare Gap, thought to be an effort of rebels to cross in force.

LATER.

It is ascertained that the main portion of the Army of the Potomac has retired from the line of the Rappahannock, a movement rendered necessary by that of the enemy.

The gunboats of the Potomac flotilla were guarding the stores at Aquia Creek on Sunday, but they have since been removed. All the wounded and sick, a large number, have been brought away and transferred to hospitals in the vicinity of Washington.

The exact whereabouts of Gen. LEE are supposed to be near or at Thoroughfare Gap.

THE MOVEMENTS OF GEN. HOOKER.

Correspondence of the Philadelphia Press.

WASHINGTON, Monday, June 15—P. M.

Another battle, bloody and frightful it most certainly will be, is now impending between the forces of Gen. HOOKER and those of Gen. LEE. The movements of the Army of the Potomac, as well as those of its fierce opponent, have for many days past, been wrapped in profound mystery. The air has been filled with rumors of all sorts, and the soldiers, for at least a week, have been restive in anticipation of some great and decisive event. The intentions of the rebel leaders to force our lines across into Pennsylvania and Maryland, have been slowly but yet surely discerned by our own Generals, who, it is hoped, have effectually checkmated their wily enemy. The Sixth army corps, who have been lying at Fredericksburgh for some time past, recrossed on Monday last, in accordance with instructions from the headquarters of the army. This move was not effected altogether with the secrecy, though with all the success, that was desired. No sooner had they left their quarters than the rebels were at their heels. Fortunately, however, the crossing had been almost completed, and the rebel forces being small, the balance were enabled to reach this side without much loss. It is estimated that the move cost our army thirty or forty killed, and double that number wounded. The Sixth corps being across, the entire army commenced to move, for it was soon ascertained that Gen. LEE had himself crossed up the river, at Rappahannock Station. It was also observed that a few days previously LEE's army was reinforced to the extent of about fifty thousand men. LEE immediately moved off in the direction of Warrenton. HOOKER prepared to follow, and the opposing forces have changed their bases, and a battle is unavoidable. It will probably occur somewhere near Bull Run. It is evidently Gen. LEE's wish and design that the next battle shall occur on the field which, on account of previous associations, has a superstitious importance. It is evident, however, that Gen. LEE has over-estimated his strength and his strategy, as future developments will show. The sick and wounded soldiers, who have been in the Aquia hospitals since the battle of Chancellorsville, have entirely deserted their quarters. Falmouth is also deserted. About five thousand sick and wounded arrived here to-day, on foot and in ambulances. Boats have been plying to and fro from Washington to Aquia Creek during the entire day, and before the sun goes down all will have safely been provided with comfortable lodgings in the hospitals in and around Washington. All the portable baggage and camp utensils have also been removed, and the material which could not be brought was burned. From Aquia Creek to Stoneman's Station the railroad is in running order, but all that below the Potomac Bridge was completely torn up yesterday (Saturday) afternoon. The iron has been hauled safely this way. The bridge which spans the river about two miles below was taken down, and the timber secured. For this work about 500 soldiers were detailed since yesterday, who have been active and laborious.

From the Baltimore American of yesterday.

The Army of the Potomac moved on Saturday from the line of the Rappahannock, having abandoned the whole of its former camping ground, and during Sunday all of our stores were removed from Aquia Creek to Alexandria. We learn from a gentleman who left the Creek on Sunday evening, that 20 steamers loaded with stores had left on that day, and that one steamer still remained, which was to bring away the few remaining officials. The buildings had not been burnt, and it was probable they would be left standing.

We learn that the whole of Gen. HOOKER's army was yesterday lying in line from Dumfrey's to Bull Run, occupying the old battle-ground, and the line of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad.

From the Washington Star of Monday evening.

Yesterday was one of the city's "rumor Sundays," and to-day also the street is thick with conflicting reports, especially with regard to the movements of HOOKER's army. Alarmists in Washington, taking advantage of the known fact that HOOKER has been changing his position, have been active in circulating hints and suggestions of disaster and loss.

Without giving the enemy any information beyond what they already know, it may be stated that HOOKER has made his change of position without the slightest loss in men or material, (of value,) and that the only burning that has taken place has been that of useless rubbish, such as always happens when an army changes its camping ground. A considerable proportion of the rolling stock, supplies, &c., reported burned at Aquia Creek, has arrived at Alexandria per barge, and it is quite certain that if it should not be thought advisable to hold the Aquia Creek station, (which we can easily do if having any military value,) all other articles remaining there can be removed at leisure. The approach of a wagon train of ours, headed by cavalry, at Aquia Creek, yesterday created the unfounded alarm there of the approach of the enemy.

A force of the rebels was reported by our scouts to be at Potomac Creek, and a visit from this body was anticipated at Aquia, but they did not make their appearance, and if at all at Potomac Creek, must have been in inconsiderable numbers.

It can be said further that HOOKER's movement has been the direct opposite of a retreat, and that his purpose is evidently to follow LEE up as closely as possible, with an eye, at the same time, to fully maintaining the defenses of Washington city; and if LEE shall undertake the desperate experiment of another invasion of the North, we will find his course as portrayed in that case even more costly one to him than that which he received at the South Mountain and Antietam.

THE BATTLE AT WINCHESTER.

Official Dispatch from Gen. Milroy.

His Outer Fortifications Carried by Storm.

He Spikes His Guns and Cuts His Way Out.

Our Loss About 2,000 in Killed, Wounded and Prisoners.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, June 16.

The following official telegram from Gen. MILROY has been received:

HARPER'S FERRY, Tuesday, June 16.

"I am in with the greater part of my command.

The fortifications at Winchester were invested by about 15,000 rebels and 20 pieces of artillery.

They carried my outer works by storm at 6 o'clock on Sunday evening.

Spiked all my guns on Sunday evening, and left with the whole of my command at 1 o'clock on Monday morning, bringing all the horses of my artillery and wagons, but was interrupted by an overwhelming rebel force, with artillery, four miles this side of Winchester, on the Martinsburgh road, and after a desperate fight of two hours, I got through.

We were pursued by a large cavalry force, who picked up a number of my weary boys.

think my loss will not exceed two thousand, in killed, wounded and missing."

DETAILS OF GEN. MILROY'S MOVEMENTS.

Correspondence of the Baltimore American.

HARPER'S FERRY, Sunday, June 14, 1863.

The rebel raid, or rather invasion, which has been so long talked about, is becoming an earnest fact, as you already know. It is difficult, in the confusion and excitement prevailing here, to ascertain the real facts, or to separate the true from the score of false and exaggerated reports flying about. There is no doubt, however, of the one great fact, that a force of considerable magnitude, under command of Gen. EWELL, is in the Valley, and that the rebels have conducted the movement with their usual celerity and skill, and are evidently determined upon a bold movement.

EVACUATION OF WINCHESTER—SUCCESSFUL RETREAT.

Their main force under Gen. EWELL in person, marched directly on Winchester, with the view of surrounding and besieging Gen. MILROY's forces there. The main body is said to have numbered eighteen thousand. The whole rebel force engaged in the movement is thought to be about twenty-five thousand men. Gen. MILROY had strongly fortified his position, and was able to hold the rebels at bay during the whole of Saturday and Sunday. Reports say that in several attacks on the works the rebels were severely repulsed and lost heavily. Finding that the enemy were heavily reinforcing and manifesting a purpose to thoroughly invest the place, Gen. MILROY determined whilst it was in his power, to cut his way out and join the forces at Harper's Ferry. The movement was successfully executed, but not without considerable hard fighting, in which our troops acquitted themselves well.

Gen. MILROY prepared for the movement during Sunday night, and at 3 o'clock this morning commenced to move out on the road toward Harper's Ferry. The rebels soon discerned the movement and followed. A running fight ensued all the way from Winchester to within a few miles of the Ferry. So far as the facts are now known, every attack of the rebels was repulsed, though not without considerable loss on our part, for which a full penalty was exacted. The sound of the artillery firing during the morning gradually approaching Harper's Ferry indicated that Gen. MILROY was falling back, and an intense interest was of course excited. About noon the head of the retreating column reached Halltown, three miles from the Ferry, and couriers soon after announced that Gen. MILROY had brought nearly the whole of his force, between nine and ten thousand men, safely in, and that he saved nearly the whole of his guns and trains. Those in the works which could not be moved were spiked. A strong supporting force was thrown from Harper's Ferry, but judging from the cessation of the firing, the rebels apparently concluded that they had been foiled, and gave up the pursuit.

EVACUATION OF MARTINSBURGH.

The troops from Martinsburgh, under Gen. TYLER, together with those from North Mountain, under orders from Gen. SCHENCK, having sent off all their stores on the trains, prepared to retreat on Harper's Ferry on Saturday evening. Everything being removed, about seven o'clock in the evening he took up his line of march, and had some slight skirmishing, in which our troops behaved very well. Nothing of value was left behind, and the whole affair was managed well, his troops reaching Harper's Ferry early on Sunday morning.

THE FIGHT AT BERRYVILLE.

The first approach of the rebels was on Berryville, which was held as an outpost of Winchester by Gen. McREYNOLDS. His force numbered about 2,000 men, including the Sixth Maryland regiment, Col. HOBBS, and Capt. ALEXANDER's First Maryland battery. Berryville is about half way between Snicker's Gap and Winchester. LONGSTREET's rebel corp is said to have advanced on this small command from Snicker's Gap, and was held in check for nearly six hours on Saturday, when they were overwhelmed by superior numbers, and fell back on Winchester.

The Sixth Maryland regiment and the First Maryland battery bore a large share of the heavy fighting at this point, and suffered severely. Capt. ALEXANDER, with his battery, supported by the Sixth, had charge of the works, and repulsed the enemy several times with great slaughter. They maintained their ground until the balance of Gen. McREYNOLD'S troops had started for Winchester, and had made good their retreat, when night coming on and the rebels closing around them in great force, they were compelled to abandon their guns and retreat. The Sixth Maryland was cut up and captured, but a small number escaping, and Capt. ALEXANDER and Lieut. EVANS, of the artillery, with 15 men, were all of his fine command who reached Harper's Ferry. A number of the missing were taken prisoners.

Gen. KELLY reports these commands as having distinguished themselves beyond all praise. They did not yield until the enemy brought thirty pieces of artillery to bear upon them.

WHEREABOUTS OF THE REBELS.

MONOCACY JUNCTION—2 P. M.

Whilst there is no doubt that the main force of the rebels which had besieged Winchester are still in Virginia, it is generally believed that the cavalry and artillery, under JENKINS, who had the fight with Gen. TYLER at Martinsburgh, have crossed into Maryland, either above or at Williamsport. It is asserted here quite confidently that rebel cavalry were in Hagerstown at 6 o'clock this morning, but the only positive fact I have been able to learn is that the telegraph line between Frederick and Hagerstown has ceased entirely to work. As there was no storm to damage the line, the inference is that it has been cut, and of course that the rebels have done it. It was also reported at Harper's Ferry that a small force of rebel cavalry had been in Sharpsburgh. The stage which left Hagerstown early this morning, passing through Middletown, arrived at the usual time, having met with no interruption, nothing having been seen or heard of the rebels along the turnpike.

EXCITEMENT IN FREDERICK.

The good people of Frederick have been in a state of great excitement to-day and yesterday. Hundreds of the citizens have made preparations to leave the town, and beside a considerable number who went to Baltimore in the trains to-day, others have gone in various directions in private vehicles, footing the Pennsylvania line. The free colored population are in great perturbation, fearing that they will be carried into Dixie, and sold as slaves, by the rebels. They crowded two or three burden cars that went down to-day, and it is probable there will be a general flight of them from this section of the country. The Government has removed its surplus commissary stores from Frederick, and cleared the hospitals of all patients who could be moved.

SAFETY OF BALTIMORE AND OHIO RAILROAD STOCK.

The railroad strategy seems to have been as much equal to the crisis. All the freight loaded in Baltimore for the West, up to Friday night, was sent through safely to its destination, and all loaded on Saturday was safely returned to this city, after getting to Sandy Hook, on the borders of the disturbed district. Of the produce and coal loaded at the West for Baltimore, all of Friday and Saturday's business, was brought through, the last four of twenty-seven trains leaving Martinsburgh on Sunday afternoon while the Confederates was within three miles of the town.

Not an engine or car is left in the whole range of 100 miles between Harper's Ferry and Cumberland. The officers of the road have been constantly on duty since the storm gathered on Tuesday last, and have been highly successful in their operations, securing their forces in places of safety, and at the same time fully performing the large regular business of the line up to the latest moment.

No trains now leave Baltimore but the mail in the morning for Harper's Ferry, and the accommodation train in the afternoon for Frederick; the night express and the through mail trains are suspended. It is impossible to-day to tell how long the trains may be interrupted, but no damage is yet reported to the track or bridges.

It is a great blow to the road to be plunged again just at this time, as its business never was heavier, and its details had again become completely reorganized from the difficulties owning upon it along interruptions prior to January last. The company, however, with the remarkable energy and address that belongs to it, will, doubtless, provide for reopening its line at the earliest possible moment, and as soon as human foresight and vigor can effect that desirable result.

NO ATTACK ON HARPER'S FERRY.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, June 16.

It is officially known here that up to this hour the rebels have made no attack upon Harper's Ferry.

The enemy is in considerable force at Charlestown, eight miles from Harper's Ferry.

THE NEWS IN WASHINGTON.

A Telegram from Gov. Curtin—The Enemy at Chambersburgh and Scotland—News from the Front, &c.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, June 16.

A telegram received at 9 o'clock to-night by Col. FULLERTON, from Gov. CURTIN, states that the enemy was at Chambersburgh and Scotland, and within seven miles of Shippensburgh. The Governor adds:

"We are preparing for them. We have works on the opposite side of the river, and will give them battle if they come. The people are rising handsomely, and we will soon have a great army. Govs. SEYMOUR and PARKER have sent militia, who will arrive to-night."

The reports of the destruction of a large amount of Government stores at Aquia Creek are incorrect. No stores of value were destroyed. The immense storehouses there yet remain intact, under the protection of the gunboats.

The last rolling stock of the Aquia Creek Railway reached Alexandria to-day. Almost all the iron was taken up from Falmouth to the Creek, and brought away.

There is little or no excitement here over the rebel raid into Pennsylvania. Never during the war has greater security been felt by all. The Government is confident in HOOKER's ability to rout LEE and his army, should he attempt a crossing of the Potomac with his whole force.

Everything is quiet in front—not even a skirmish to-day.

The Administration has received assurances from most of the Governors of the loyal States that all the troops required to repel the invasion will be speedily forthcoming.

The most patriotic sentiments come from Pennsylvania to-day. SIMON CAMERON tells us to support President LINCOLN square up to his shoulder. He says: "Support our honest and most honorable President to his wrists, shoulders and elbows. Support him through and through. I am, as he is, for the Union, for Pennsylvania and the North through and through."

The movements to-day indicate that the people are a unit.

NEWSPAPER REPORTS.

EXCITEMENT IN HARRISBURGH.

Correspondence of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

HARRISBURGH, June 14.

At the time of writing the intelligence is that communication between Chambersburgh and Hagerstown has been cut, and that the enemy is on his way into the interior of the State. Great confusion exists in Chambersburgh, as the rebels are expected there by 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Gen. HAUPTMAN writes to the Governor, from Washington, to the effect that STUART's cavalry may be in Harrisburgh by to-morrow, or, at furthest, by Wednesday morning, and that his object will be mainly plunder and the destruction of all the public and private property they may lay their hands on.

Of military movements, as I have already informed you, I am not permitted to speak. Suffice it to say that defensive works of great extent are being erected around Harrisburgh.

Gen. COUCH is hard at work, and the citizens willingly assist.

Should the rebels succeed in capturing Harrisburgh, they will find very little valuable public property, except public buildings, which they will certainly destroy. All the powder in the State Arsenal has been removed to a safe place. The records and archives of the State have already been shipped.

It is generally conceded that LEE must have a perfect system of communication with spies in the interior. Dr. LEACOCK, who was arrested on Saturday morning, is supposed to have been engaged in this capacity.

At noon to-day the Court-house bell was rung, and the citizens of Harrisburgh assembled en masse. Gen. CAMERON presided, assisted by Mayor ROMBERGER. Committees were appointed to wait on the Governor and Gen. COUCH, asking their presence at the meeting. Soon after the Committees arrived, and as the Governor and Gen. COUCH entered the room there was long continued cheering for each. Ascending the platform, there being loud calls for a speech, Gov. CURTIN said, among other things:

"It affords me great satisfaction to witness your meeting here. After your happy response heretofore, I know that you are again ready to do your duty. I need not appeal to you under the recollections of the past. This is no time, fellow-citizens, to discuss political questions. It must be entirely separated from all politics.

If our information is correct, an army of rebels, consisting of a large force, is advancing on the Capital, having reached our borders, and an appeal has been made to the people of Pennsylvania to protect themselves.

In a letter which I received to-day from a true

HONORS TO GEN. MEAGHER

He is Presented with the Hospitalities of the City and the Kearny Cross.

Gen. Meagher and Judge Dean Denounce the Peace Movement.

In accordance with a resolution of the Common Council, the Committee on National Affairs, headed by Mayor Opdyke and Alderman Farley, waited upon Gen. Meagher at the Astor House yesterday noon, to tender him the hospitalities of the City. A number of gentlemen of note in civic and military life were present to participate in the ceremonies. The presentation was made by Mayor Opdyke in the following terms:

SPEECH OF MAYOR OPDYKE.

Gen. Meagher: I have the pleasure of presenting to you a handsomely prepared official copy of the series of resolutions adopted by the Common Council of this City. These resolutions relate to your own gallant services in the field, and are the expression of full hearts. They are as follows:

(The Mayor here read the resolutions as heretofore published in the Times.)

These resolutions, Sir, received the unanimous vote of both branches of the Common Council, and were promptly and cordially approved by me. Complimentary as are the terms in which they are expressed, we might have gone much further, and not have come up, in our commendations to the point to which your services would have entitled you. You have proved yourself, Sir, both in the Old Country and in the New, a gallant, earnest, and devoted friend of civil liberty. You have wielded in his defence three of the most potent instruments—the eloquence of your voice, the force of your pen, and the power of your sword. For the use of the two former in the Old Country you suffered almost everything but martyrdom. You came here, and found the same cause assailed. You at once sprang to its defence, and led the gallant brigade of your countrymen through numerous battles, in which their ranks were decimated. They were reduced to a little more than one-half the number with which you took the field. For such gallantry and such sacrifices as these, I feel, and the municipal authorities of the City feel, that the country and the City of your adoption owe you everything—every honor, and all gratitude in their power to bestow. They hope, Sir, that your absence will be but temporary. They feel that the new exigency which has just arisen will again enlist your sword in its defence, and that the country will have the aid of your valuable efforts. In the meantime, Sir, we shall feel grateful if you will accept the return from your services which we thus so gratefully tender you. [Applause.]

GEN. MEAGHER'S REPLY.

Gen. Meagher, in response, read the following address:

Mr. Mayor and Gentlemen: The honor of great cities have long been regarded as the highest honor which public men could receive. From the days of the beautiful and prosperous Republics of the Middle Ages, which nursed civil government first began to be identified with popular liberty, with the spread of a more enlightened civilization, with a bold commerce and the patronage of the arts, statesmen, discoverers of seas and lands, scholars and warriors, have had their labors compensated with the civic crown, and it has been to them the brightest encouragement as well as the brightest honor. Your City, Sir, has well, of by, this honor, which in a few years has sprung into proportions, and achieved a consequence which it used to take centuries for the other cities and capitals of the world to attain, justly, in the lofiest or the humblest mind, feelings of satisfaction, confidence and pride. Receiving, as I do, now for the second time, through her municipal representatives, the congratulations of this City, I ought, surely, to feel gratified and elated in a high degree; and were even an inordinate sentiment of vanity to mingle with the joyousness of the occasion, I might be pardoned me in consideration of the thanks and praises you have bestowed. These, however, conscious of the little merit due to the great cause, which, Sir, so intimately and deeply concerns this community, I shall not be so wanting in propriety of judgment as to appropriate; and, for the same reason, with sincere gratefulness for the generous partiality which dictated them, I most respectfully decline the hospitalities you invite me to accept. But whilst I relinquish for myself the thanks the praises and the honors which the Common Council of New-York have offered me in so signal a manner, I shall claim them in the fullest measure for the officers and soldiers whose quiet intelligence, constant fortitude, unshrinking courage, and brave in the career of the Irish brigade contributed some brilliant chapters to the history of the Army of the Potomac. Never did your liberal and patriotic City send forth truer men to vindicate in battle the rights of the people, the security of the laws, the supremacy of the national authorities. They did not wait for bounties. Months before bounties or any such inglorious inducements were held out, they leaped to arms, and, content with the modest wages of the service, did their duty under every circumstance of privation, hardship, desperate danger and exhaustion, with promptitude and enthusiasm. Nor were these staunch and dauntless men more noted for their alacrity on the march, the intrepidity with which they have faced the enemy, their vigilance on picket, and their impetuosity in the charge, than for their gentleness, their goodness of heart, their chivalrous courtesy and beneficence when the thunders had been stilled and the red tide ceased to flow. In this respect they were not inferior to the finest examples which illuminate even the darkest picture of war with the graces of civil life and finest duties of religion. In moments of excitement they never gave way to the excesses which for the most part disfigure, and shamefully blot the records of the grandest victories. The houses, cattle, and crops, orchards, and other property of inoffensive families, who had abandoned them to the mercy of the nation, as well as all the goods and chattels belonging to families who stood their ground, were respected by the men of the Irish brigade, who went out from here to fight, and down the armed enemies of the Republic, and not to cast naked and breadless on the world the women and children and aged fathers of the delinquent States. It was the boast of a Roman soldier of distinction, in the days of Pliny, that he had taken nothing in the way of booty but one little silver beech-wood vin which to offer sacrifice. The soldiers of the Irish brigade can proudly boast of having been as less moderate in the hour of excitement and temptation, and of having added to their colors no spoils or trophies which their honest courage did not win, and which an exalted code of virtue, as well as the rules of war, did not approve. You can easily imagine, gentlemen, that to separate myself from such men was an effort of severe painfulness. Having raised, organized, and conducted them to the Potomac, and there left them, all though the operations of the war in Virginia and Maryland, and my relations with them having been rather those of a devoted friend and comrade than those of a superior in command, my heart failed within me as I took each of them by the hand, bid them God speed, and prayed God to preserve and bless them. But, reduced to a battalion as they were, and as such called upon every day and in every action, under the hottest fire and in the most dangerous straits, to do the duty of a brigade, I felt it would be criminal in me, by retaining my position, any longer to sanction what had become an unjust and cruel exaction, and encourage its repetition. Hence, with the hope that my doing so might lessen the labors of the few who then survived, and expose them to fewer dangers, and that the remnant of the Irish brigade might be saved, I came to the conclusion that it was a duty urged by humanity, as well as inspired by honor, for me to declare that the brigade had ceased to exist, and that, as I had no command, it was but decent of me to relinquish the emoluments of a sinecure. In taking leave of the army, under these urgent circumstances, I did not resolve myself of my obligations to the Republic, nor did my sworn devotion to its fortunes undergo the slightest change. The errors of those who administer the public affairs, no matter how grievous, irritating or humiliating they may be, can never release them, no exemption from the duties we owe the commonwealth, and from which death alone can free us. Indeed it seems to me that the darker the clouds that surround the Executive, the more distressing the weather it encounters, the more serious the dangers into which it becomes entangled, the brighter and greater ought be the energy with which the nation should be upheld. Let no true citizen, therefore, shrink back to day from the broad road along which the flag of his country beckons him to advance, in order to pick a quarrel in some obscure hole or corner with the Treasury or the War Department. At this moment, when the enemies of the Republic are thundering at the gates of the free North, let us recognize no party but the army of the United States. Let Abolitionism keep within doors, and pray, till it wears its knees out, that the black may be made whiter than snow. Let the soldiers of the law, who never dare into life until their sobriety are touched, though the pillars and foundations of the temple, in which they have learned to spin their yarns, may be shaken, secluded themselves until the storm is over, and spare their minute endeavors to secure the endangered edifice with their tender shrouds. Let all these trifling, grumblers, drivellers and conspirators fall to the rear, and let the army, swelled to a million by the people, proceed, beat back the enemy, crush the insurrection, restore the Constitution and reinstate the Union. When that happy and glorious event takes place—as it assuredly will, and that, before many months pass by, if the people of the loyal States be animated with the spirit of the young and gallant Henry the Fifth, who declared that he loved France so well that he would not part with a village of it, but that it should all be his—when that happy and glorious event takes place, it will delight me to participate with the survivors of the Irish brigade in the honors and hospitalities which, in their absence, I now gratefully decline, begging of you to reserve them until the return of those brave companions of mine, who, having shared with me so many toils and dangers, are entitled to the largest measure of the public favor, and the gratitude of this great City.

ALDERMAN FARLEY MAKES A PRESENTATION.

Alderman Farley, then addressing Gen. Meagher, said, that in his capacity as Chairman of the Committee on National Affairs, he had been requested to present him with the Kearny Cross in token of his appreciation by that noble commander.

GEN. MEAGHER ACCEPTS THE CROSS.

Gentlemen: I am proud, indeed, to receive at the hands of Alderman Farley, the Chairman of the Committee on National Affairs, of this City, this military decoration—known in the Army of the Potomac—and outside of it wherever the honored name of Kearny is known, and wherever a gallant heart can vibrate to a kindred one—as the "Kearny Cross." The soldiers who served under Gen. Kearny since the commencement of the war in Virginia, when they learned that he had received his death-wound, adopted this cross, to be worn in memory of their chivalrous leader. I had the privilege of being on terms of honored intimacy with him, as he took a friendly and most cordial interest in the welfare and the reputation of the Irish brigade. It was decided by Major-Gen. Birney, now commanding the division, and the other officers holding commissions in it, that, as the friend and comrade of Gen. Kearny, I should be invited to wear it. I shall wear it proudly and most gratefully; and I trust—nay, I promise you with all the earnest of a soldier, and a soldier's life does march as earnestness and truth—I promise you with all the earnestness and truth of a soldier, that I shall surrender this cross only upon the same grade by a gallant officer in one of the military prisons of Richmond. They had taken from him his sword, his sash and his shoulder-straps, and every other decoration. They were about to take from him his Kearny cross. "No," he said, "you shall not take that. If you take it, it shall be from my corpse." [Applause.]

The cross thus presented was of silver, with gold Mountings, and bore the inscription on the obverse: "To Gen. Meagher, of the Irish Brigade, Kearny's friend and comrade of the Old Division," and, on the reverse:

"Kearny's Division."

The complimentary resolutions of the Common Council were beautifully engrossed on parchment, ornamented with the municipal arms and Irish emblems, and handsomely mounted. The whole was inclosed in a tasteful velvet case, with an appropriate inscription.

A COLLATION.

The company then proceeded to an adjoining room, where a collation was spread, to which ample justice was soon—very soon done.

At the conclusion, Mayor Opdyke feelicitously spoke of having captured Gen. Meagher and brought him in. He, in conclusion, offered the following toast:

The Health of our Distinguished Guest, Gen. Meagher—May his life and faculties long be spared; that he may use his eloquent voice and pen and sword in defence of civil liberty. [Applause.]

GEN. MEAGHER SPEAKS AGAIN.

Gentlemen: Speaking as I do, as a guest of the Corporation of the City of New-York, and aware, as I am, that important duties devolve upon the gentlemen who compose it, and that some of them at this time, are of extreme urgency, I shall not be so inconsiderate, or so regardless of the public interest, which are now of national consequence, as to more than briefly acknowledge the very gracious welcome you have given me to this board, which certainly has sprung up before me and startled me as though it were a banquet of enchantment. Certainly I was prepared that you should treat me as the young gamblers with coppers treat a "green" fellow, who fairly tells you lose." [Laughter.] I see that whether I declined or accepted, you were prepared to make me enjoy the hospitalities of the City. [Laughter.] You have spoken, Mr. Mayor, of having taken me rather violently, I seized upon me; was the deliberate word, and carried me captive to this entertainment. As the ancient victims were dressed in flowers, and led to the slaughter, so these garlands attest that you still prolong the rites. [Laughter.] You here testify your devotion to the City and to the Commonwealth. Some serious pledges were given, at the commencement of these rites, in reference to the hope which fell from you, Mr. Mayor, speaking in the name of the Common Council of New-York, I can assure you, with that loyalty not to the least abated by my temporary separation from what was once the Irish brigade, I shall throw myself into this conflict that has been brought near to our very doors. [Applause.] I shall do so in any capacity in which I may be useful either to the authorities of this City, or to the nation, and in which I can prove most available. [Applause.] Here let me say that I trust that from this hour, at all events, there shall be no more petitions for peace since these supplications have flung open the gates, and invited the enemy to cross the Potomac. [Applause.] This is not a moment to mince words, certainly not for one who had been accustomed to obey nothing but words of command, and to see those words promptly, and punctually, and literally obeyed. I for one cannot but regard any one who utters "peace" from this moment out, as a confirmed and branded traitor. [Applause.] I know that those on whose behalf I speak, would not allow their lips with such a crime; and even now I think I do not entertain exaggerated hopes when I say that our cause, encouraging, inspiring as it does young men, and the able men, to go forth and give battle at our gates to the enemies of the Republic—and, being enemies of the republic, enemies of humanity—that the old men themselves will follow the same illustrious example left us in the records of antiquity. It is well remembered by those who refer to such sources for lessons of patriotism and for encouragement in civic duty, and especially that duty that relates to the defence of a distinguished citizen of Rome, bowed down with age, infirm and decrepid, almost helpless, and literally prostrated, who had served his country with his sword and spoke, I heard that a dishonorable peace was to be effected, had himself carried out on his bed that he might proclaim with his dying gasp for war, and not for peace. [Applause.] I trust, gentlemen, from this agreeable meeting here, and from the reception tendered me in recognition of the services of the Irish brigade that we shall not part without this impression which shall survive the perishing of these flowers, and be more exhilarating to the nation than those wreaths have been to us, and then let me say to the Corporation of the City of New-York that I feel it would be a selfish addiction to a favorite theme of mine to speak only of what the Irish brigade has done. Let me assure the municipal representatives of the City of New-York that every regiment that went forth from the City did its duty just as boldly and as brilliantly as they. If I may be excused particular in singling out any military organization from the many which the liberality and patriotism of this City equipped for the service of the Republic, let me claim for your consideration, your remembrance and favor, the Excelsior brigade. [Applause.] That brigade and the Irish brigade were one in heart, one in purpose, and they strove, as it were, with one arm. Also let me break through the trammels of nationality, and bear my cordial and fervent testimony to the gallantry of the German soldiers of New-York. [Applause.] With them I was associated on more than one memorable occasion, but especially under the fierce fire of the enemy's light artillery at "White Oak Swamp"—the Seventh New-York Volunteers composed exclusively of Germans of the City of New-York, and commanded by one of the most chivalrous and accomplished officers of the Army of the Potomac, Col. Von Steinaecker. I feel, Sir, that it is more than a pleasure, more than a courtesy, it is a duty I owe to my brave companions in arms to make this public acknowledgment. Regarding the Eleventh corps, I have a right to speak, for, when their alleged rout took place, I commanded about the men of my brigade holding the advance on the road going to United States Ford in the extreme front, against my position many of this corps broke, and I here state this while not more than half a dozen were distinguished by the Teutonic accent. I will not say to whom the residue of the better shelter multitude belonged, but I will only say that I feel it due to my own race to say that the "brogue" at all events was no discernible. [Applause.] No wonder that the Germans and the French, and the Irish, and every other foreign nationality should take equal interest, and display equal gallantry in the defence of the authority of the Republic, since with those whose homes had been established with the foundations of it, or whose families can point to an honored line of ancestors, of the oldest of these States, the emigrant who arrived here this morning is equally concerned. It was the golden hope of hearing here an assured home in which he could retrieve the fortunes of the past, and secure here a country and a flag of which he might boast before all nations; that lured him across the seas, and brought him to take the oath of citizenship. [Applause.] Gentlemen, I do not belong to that honored and most useful body, the Common Council, I ask you to drink to this toast:

"Success in their labors of honor, to the Mayor and Common Council of the good and great City of New-York, and as Washington is the political Capital, so may this City be the commercial metropolis of the united and indivisible Republic." [Applause.]

Alderman Farley called upon Judge Grazer Dean to respond.

SPEECH OF JUDGE DEAN.

By what authority am I called upon to answer for the City of New-York? I, who am here by accident, holding no official position. It is an arbitrary arrest, it, however, gives me an opportunity, while I am not prepared to speak particularly for or about our ancient and honored municipality, to express my views in reference to the recent movements made here and elsewhere North for peace. I, as a member of the Legislature, had to act upon that subject, and, though an opponent of the war in its inception, believing it was commenced without nature, and that it had been conducted without ability, and its objects perverted, yet I am unable to see how we can now get out of it, except by fighting out. Peace, now when disaster and defeat is upon us—what does it mean? Peace is surrender and cowardice—it is desertion of the thousands who now on the Rappahannock or the Potomac, or at Vicksburgh, are contending for national unity. [Applause.] Peace now means disunion, perpetual and final, with no hope of a reunion. To that I will never consent. [Applause.] I am, however, for peace. I am a peace man. Whenever a Peace Convention shall be called at Charleston, or at Richmond, I will attend—in New-York, never. [Applause.] While, the cannon of the rebels can be heard at Washington—when the Capital of Pennsylvania is threatened—while Border States loyal to the Union are invaded—neither may talk of surrender and of compromise, but for myself, I see no reason for it. I would pledge the whole of the property of the North, and every able-bodied man to vindicate its nationality and the indivisibility of the Republic. I feel as others do the imbecility of the Administration—its vacillation, its exercise against citizens of powers not conferred, but when a ship is on a lee-shore in danger of wreck and destruction to all on board, it is no time for mutiny. Let all hands man the rails—get her again on her course, and then, if necessary, change the captain and pilot. In conclusion, let me say that I am glad here Gov. Seymour has called for 20,000 men to defend Pennsylvania—let it be five times 20,000, if need be—let New-York City, which is older than the State, and the State, which is older than the Union, by the prodigality of their expenditure—prove their devotion to the cause of National Unity, and never, on any pretence, consent to a termination of this conflict, except on a restoration of the Union as it was and the Constitution as it is, with all its guarantees of personal liberty and the rights of the States. [Applause.]

Mr. Dean then complimented Gen. Meagher, the Irish Brigade, and concluded with a toast to Alderman Farley, the Chairman, and the Committee on Public Defence.

Rev. Mr. Boyle, Quartermaster Tully, of the Sixty-ninth, and Gen. Ward B. Burnett were respectively called upon and responded briefly, after which the company separated.

The Loyalty of Gen. Halleck.

We observe that in the general attack of all persons in high places, the General-in-Chief does not escape. He seems to be particularly singled out by some German papers in the West. His generalship, his Union feelings, his sincerity in carrying out the President's policy concerning negroes in the disloyal States—all are criticized, doubted, and even perversely cassiled. We do not pretend to know the motives of these assailants, nor do we undertake to discuss with them the military merits of Gen. Halleck, or measured and orders of which his enemies do not know anything more than ourselves—whether they emanated from him or not. His Union feelings are proved by his career, from the day when the first news of the insurrection reached him in California to this day; and as to the third point—his assumed unwillingness frankly to carry out the views of the Government regarding Slavery—we are able to state a few facts which will shed some light on the debated point.

We believe that Gen. Halleck was first assailed for his suspected Pro-Slavery views, when, commanding in the West, he issued the order that fugitive slaves should not be suffered within the camps. If that order was not judiciously worded, it was at any rate exclusively meant as a camp police measure.

When Dr. Lieber published, June 1, 1862, his letters to Attorney-General Bates, in which that publicist distinctly laid down the rule that, according to the law of nations, a slave fleeing from one belligerent to another must be received by the belligerent with whom the fugitive seeks refuge, as a free man, the General-in-Chief distinctly expressed his assent, both as General and as lawyer. This happened immediately after he had assumed the chief command in Washington.

There exists an unofficial letter of Gen. Halleck's to Maj.-Gen. Grant—we believe of March, 1863—in which the former explains the necessity of destroying the slave oligarchy of the South—a necessity which had fully and plainly developed itself in the course of this war.

The most convincing fact, however, in connection with the subject in hand is probably this, that when Dr. Lieber embodied the important idea contained in the letter to Attorney-General Bates, in the Code of Instructions for the Government of the Armies of the United States in the field, in several places, but especially in the following paragraphs, Gen. Halleck not only approved of them but made an important addition.

The paragraphs of the Code, now ordered by the President as General Order No. 100, are these:

40. There exists no law or body of authoritative rules of action between hostile armies, except that branch of the law of nature and nations which is called the law and usages of war on land.

41. All municipal law of the ground on which the armies stand, or of the countries in which they belong, is silent and of no effect between armies in the field.

42. Slavery, complicating and confounding the ideas of property (that is of a thing) and of personality, (that is of humanity,) exists according to municipal or local law only. The law of nature and nations has never acknowledged it. The digest of the Roman law enacts the early dictum of the pagan jurist, that "so far as the law of nature is concerned, all men are equal." Fugitives escaping from a country in which they were slaves, villains in serfs into another country, have, for centuries past, been held free, and acknowledged free by political decisions of European countries, even though municipal law of the country in which the slave had taken refuge acknowledged Slavery within its own dominions.

43. Therefore, in a war between the United States and a belligerent which admits of Slavery, if a person held in bondage by that belligerent be captured by or come as a fugitive under the protection of the military forces of the United States, such person is immediately entitled to the rights and privileges of a free person. To restore such fugitive, under any pretense, amount to enslaving a free person, and neither the United States nor any officer under their authority can enslave any human being. Moreover, a person so made free by the law of war is under the shield of the law of nations, and the former owner or State can have, by the law of post-liminy, no belligerent lien or claim of service.

Gen. Halleck added those words, concluding paragraph forty-three, which we have italicised, and all lawyers well understand the additional weight given to the paragraph by the annexed words.

The whole code of instructions was carefully examined by Gen. Halleck, himself the author of a distinguished work on the Law of Nations, and in no case, as we understand upon good authority, has he narrowed; in any way whatever, its liberal scope. On the contrary, he has contributed essential points, strengthening its manly, candid and liberal character.

Gen. Halleck is a man void of ambition in a rare degree, and peculiarly reticent—a man who is in the habit of declining to have his friends correct unfounded or malignant attacks—in our opinion far too much so—and we have thought it no more than simple justice to give our readers those facts which we happen to know as authentic.

MESSAGE FROM HIS HONOR THE MAYOR.

A message was received from His Honor the Mayor, inclosing copy of original certificate, designating the New-York Herald and New-York Tribune, two papers in which the advertising for the City and county is to be inserted pursuant to section second, of chapter two hundred and twenty-seven, laws of one thousand eight hundred and sixty three.

Received and referred to Committee on Printing and Advertising.

The following message was received from his Honor the Mayor, returning unapproved resolution giving permission to Charles Adee to place a small sign on the lamp-post on the northeast corner of Liberty-street and Broadway.

Mayor's Office,
New-York, June 12, 1863.

To the Honorable the Board of Aldermen:

Gentlemen: I return without approval the resolution giving permission to Charles Adee to place a small sign on the lamp-post on the northeast corner of Liberty-street and Broadway.

It must be obvious to your honorable body, that as a general rule it is not expedient to grant to individuals the right to use the City lamp-posts as supports for their business signs. To me it seems improper to grant it in any case, and I would respectfully suggest that it is hardly judicious to establish such a precedent as even this limited one would create, inasmuch as it can hardly fail to be followed by a multitude of applications for similar favors to other parties, which it might prove very difficult to grant and equally embarrassing to refuse.

GEORGE OPDYKE, Mayor.

Which was received, laid on the table, directed to be entered at length in the minutes, and published in the papers employed by the Corporation.

The following message was received from His Honor the Mayor, returning unapproved a resolution and ordinance providing for the designing full width, of the sidewalk on the southern side of Fifty-first-street, between Broadway and Eighth-avenue:

Mayor's Office,
New-York, June 12, 1863.

To the Honorable the Board of Aldermen:

Gentlemen: I return, without my approval, the resolution and ordinance providing for the designing full width, of the sidewalk on the southern side of Fifty-first-street, between Broadway and Eighth-avenue.

I understand that this sidewalk is already flagged four feet in width. No petition for additional flagging appears to have been presented, while the owner of more than one-half of the block has remonstrated to me against it, and from the information I have received I would suppose it to be in fact unnecessary.

GEORGE OPDYKE, Mayor.

Which was received, laid on the table, directed to be entered at length in the minutes, and publishing in the papers employed by the Corporation.

PAPERS PREVIOUSLY LAID OVER.

United States Circuit Court.

Before Judge Shipman.

Sheffield vs. The Mayor, &c.—The jury in this case were out all night, but were unable to agree upon a verdict, and were yesterday discharged.

THE POISONING CASE.

The second trial of John M. Grifin, for poisoning Capt. Bunce, was set down for yesterday, but, owing to an important witness for the Government being ordered away, the case could not go on, and was put off for the term.

"Habeas Corpus Issued to the Sheriff.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Before Justice Sutherland.

The People ex rel. Anne O'Brien vs. Jas. Leach, Sheriff.—This case came before the Court on a habeas corpus commanding the Sheriff to produce the body of Anne O'Brien. The Sheriff returned that she was in his custody on a warrant issued by a referee. A copy of the commitment was annexed. The commitment showed that the relator had refused to answer a question, which the referee decided it was her duty to answer, (which question was set forth in the warrant,) and that the Sheriff was required to hold her in custody until further orders. It was objected and argued by counsel for the relator, that the provision of the code allowing referees to commit for contempt was unconstitutional; and also that the commitment was defective in form. The point principally argued was upon the right of the witness to refuse to answer, the counsel for the Sheriff contending that the matter could not be renewed on habeas corpus, and that if it could be renewed, then the commitment was proper, because the question was not put to the witness with the intent to impeach her character, but to obtain an answer material to the issue between the parties to the action. The Court adjourned the decision until to-morrow, and meanwhile remanded the relator to the Sheriff's custody.

For relator, Jonas B. Phillips; for the Sheriff, A. J. Vanderpoel.

Action for Rent—Measure of Damages.

SUPERIOR COURT—TR

[illegible] coin, and 154@156 for Merchant bills drawn against Produce shipments. The Scotia, this morning, brought out higher figures for United States Stocks in London—the demand chiefly from Holland—and also some substantial orders for the 6 ⅌ cent. Coupon Stock of 1881, and 5 ⅌ cents of 1874, with directions, also, to subscribe to a few of the 6 ⅌ cents of 1862—the 5-20 years' Stock—at par. The American Railways continue in good demand in London, but mainly for transmission to the New-York market. The Grain advices by this arrival are less favorable for the market on this side, though the difference is nearly made up by the rise in Gold and Exchange. Messrs. BARING write of American Stocks:

"United States stocks are in some demand: the 5s of 1866 at 65@66, the 6s of 1881 @66@66, and the 5s of 62 @65. Nothing doing in State stocks; prices are nominal. In railroad bonds a brisk business has been done. We quote Illinois Central 8s 72@75; 7s 79@80; shares 31½@30½ discount. New-York and Erie 1st mortgage 7s 73@76, 2d mortgage 75@76, 3d mortgage 70@71; shares 89½@60½. New-York Central 1st mortgage 6s 70@75, 7s 60@65; shares 70@73. Canada 6s 67@68. Nova Scotia 6s 107@108. New-Brunswick 6s 107@108."

And Mr. E. F. SATTERTHWAITE, London Broker in American Securities, reports:

"During the past week, the chief features in the London market for American Securities has been the apparent desire on the part of English holders to sell Both Bonds and Shares, while all the stock offered has been eagerly bought for export. United States 5 and 6 ⅌ cent. Bonds, for the Dutch market, and other descriptions for America. Atlantic and Great Western Bonds, however, form an exception, considerable investments continuing to be made in both the New-York and Pennsylvania sections. On the late advance in prices in New-York, Erie and Illinois have improved about $3, and a demand has sprung up for Illinois options of 1874, which are quoted $7 to $8 premium."

There was scarcely an average amount of business at the Stock Exchange to-day, and the ultimate variations in prices were an advance of 1¼@2 ⅌ cent. in Gold Coin; ½ ⅌ cent. in United States 6 ⅌ cents of 1881, and 1 ⅌ cent. in Harlem Common Shares; while on the other Railways the market was steady for New-York Central and Erie, and ¼@1 ⅌ cent. lower on Hudson and most of the Western lines. The following figures were made at 4 o'clock in comparison with last night; the general temper of the market being dull, and prices steady:

	Mon.	Tues.		Mon.	Tues.
Gold Coin	146¼	148¼	Harlem Pref.	90	90
U. S. 6s, 1881	109¼	109	Mich. Central	112xd	110¾

The market for Money at 7 ⅌ cent. to the Stock Brokers was reasonably easy to-day. The demand this week is generally less urgent than last, and few or no complaints are heard from the Brokers at the outside rate. Some of them report loans at call as low as 6 ⅌ cent. The stirring war news has very little effect on the conversion of United States Currency into the New Stock of 1882. The amount paid into the Treasury Office, to-day, is $1,329,800, of which $1,000,800 through the Loan Agency, and $169,300 on subscriptions at the Treasury direct. Total receipts, $2,113,039 54; payments, $2,106,421 58; balance, $23,876,045 74. The Customs are $97,000.

Owing mainly to the trouble with the stevedores and longshoremen, the week's exports of domestic Produce and Miscellaneous Goods (exclusive of Specie,) were only to the value of $2,426,583, against $3,427,216 same week last year, and $3,336,118 the corresponding week of 1861.

The aggregates of the Philadelphia Banks at the last weekly statement, show the following changes, as compared with last week:

Increase of Loans	$70,856
Increase of Specie	91

OILS—The demand has been less active for nearly all descriptions, at our revised quotations: Crude Whale, 55c.@60c.; Bleached Winter do., at $1; Crude Sperm, $1 82@$1 85; Unbleached Winter do., $1 90@$1 95; City Red at 65c.@66c.; Linseed at $1 20@$1 21; No. 1 Lard Oil, 62½c.@65c.; Crude Petroleum at 25c.@26½c.; Refined do., chiefly for future delivery, at prices about equal to 30c.@60c. free, on the spot, ⅌ gallon. The week's business in Petroleum Mr. TURNER notices thus: The market during the week under review has been scarcely so firm as at the date of my last, in part owing to the decline in gold. Refined on the spot sold as low as 44½c. in one or two instances, but closes again firmly at 45½c. @47c. for Light Straw to Prime White. For delivery in July, sales have been made at 47½c. for August, at 51c.@52½c., and for September, at 55½c.@53c.; but at the close it would be difficult, if not impossible, to effect purchases for the future at these figures. Crude has been steady at 27c.@26c., with a fair demand at these quotations. Naptha or Petroleum Spirit continues neglected. The following are the receipts at and the exports from New-York, of Petroleum, for the week and since Jan. 1:

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

The rebels, in their invasion of Pennsylvania, are reported in our latest dispatches to have advanced no further than Chambersburgh. Nothing certain appears to be known about their movements, however, further than that they were at Chambersburgh on Monday night, having, it is supposed, burnt the town of Greencastle in their progress. The rebel force in the Shenandoah Valley, which attacked Gen. MILROY at Winchester, had not up to last evening made any demonstration against Harper's Ferry, though they were reported in heavy force at Charlestown, only eight miles distant. We receive assurances from Washington that there was no collision yesterday between Gens. HOOKER and LEE. The invasion of Pennsylvania has, of course, created the greatest excitement throughout Pennsylvania and Maryland, and the excitement has spread to New-York, under the spur of the call upon the militia, which is being responded to with the greatest alacrity. Twelve or fourteen regiments are already under marching orders from New-York City, and most of them will probably leave to-day.

An official dispatch from Gen. MILROY, received by the War Department, announces his arrival at Harper's Ferry, with the greater part of his command. The fortifications at Winchester were invested by about 15,000 rebels, with twenty pieces of artillery. The outer works were carried by storm at 6 o'clock on Sunday evening, when Gen. MILROY spiked all his guns, and left with his command at 1 o'clock on Monday morning. He was intercepted by an overwhelming rebel force, with artillery, four miles this side of Winchester, but after a desperate fight of two hours, succeeded in cutting his way through. Gen. MILROY thinks his loss will not exceed 2,000 in killed, wounded and missing.

We now have some knowledge of the movements of Gen. HOOKER'S army. Gen. HOOKER'S headquarters left the station near Falmouth on Sunday morning, and rested near Dumfries on Sunday night. On Monday evening he proceeded on the road to Fairfax Station, where he is supposed to have arrived on Monday night. The Sixth Army corps, a portion of which had lain across the river below Fredericksburgh, had previously been withdrawn, under cover of darkness, with trifling loss, the pontoons were taken up, and the whole army was soon in motion to checkmate LEE, who was ascertained to have effected a crossing of the river at Rappahannock Station, and to be moving toward Warrenton. On Sunday evening at 7 o'clock cannonading was heard in the direction of Thoroughfare Gap, of which no explanation has yet been given. It was considered probable in Washington that another great battle would be fought on or near the historical battle-field of Bull Run. All our stores at Belle Plain and Aquia Creek were successfully removed to Alexandria, which is Gen. HOOKER'S base of supplies.

It was reported in Washington on Monday that three regiments of the rebels were at Belle Plains, on Potomac Creek. They had, however, not made any incursion upon Aquia Creek.

We have advices from Vicksburgh to the 12th, which are of the most cheering general character. The rebel garrison is said to be subsisting on quarter rations, and to be short of ammunition. Joe. JOHNSTON is said to occupy Canton and Yazoo City in considerable force.

The steamer McClellan, at Boston, from New-Orleans, brings the report, before published, that Gen. BANKS has been reinforced from Gen. GRANT'S army. The statement, vouched for by many officers, is, that Gen. GRANT sent to Gen. BANKS for siege guns, of which the latter had an immense supply. The reply was, allow me ten thousand men, and the guns will be immediately forwarded. Gen. GRANT sent the men and BANKS the guns.

Our correspondence from Key West to the 12th inst., announces a severe storm at Apalachicola, Fla., during which two of our blockading vessels—the bark Amanda and the barkentine Andrew Mandersen—were wrecked, being driven ashore by the force of the gale. The number of prize vessels taken into Key West continues to be very large. The Admiralty Court there is busily occupied in investigating their cases.

It has been reported that Maj.-Gen. SICKLES would not return to the Army of the Potomac. We are authorized to state such is not the case. The General's health will not admit of his taking command of his old corps in active service, for some time at least; and the doctors strongly urge him have forbidden his going back, as his system is prostrated with exposure for a long period, and requires rest to recuperate.

FROM EUROPE.

European news, five days later is received by the arrival at this port of the steamship Scotia. She left Liverpool on the 6th and Queenstown on the 7th inst. The news is of very little importance. It is stated that the steamer Lord Clyde, suspected to be intended for the rebels, was searched while at Cardiff, by order of Earl RUSSELL. A very rigid scrutiny, however, failed to reveal anything suspicious about her, and she proceeded on her voyage to Nassau. Parliamentary proceedings were without interest. It appears from a St. Petersburgh telegram that France invited the American Government to join the great European Powers in their diplomatic action toward Russia on the Polish question, and the reply of Mr. SEWARD had been published at St. Petersburgh. The Washington Cabinet refused its cooperation, on the ground that America can never deviate from her traditional policy of non-intervention in European affairs, except in cases of evident necessity. The revolution continued very active. Three or four defeats of the Russians are chronicled. The London Observer says that the three great Powers have sent an urgent note to Russia, asking for a representative government for Poland, a general amnesty for all the Polish insurgents, and an immediate cessation of hostilities. The Liverpool Cotton market was very quiet, and prices had a drooping tendency. Breadstuffs were dull, and Provisions quiet. Consols 93@93¾.

GENERAL NEWS.

At the meeting of the Supervisors, yesterday, notice was received from the Mayor and Comptroller of their selection of the Herald and Tribune in which to publish the City and County advertisements. Mr. PURDY said the provision of law under which the Mayor and Comptroller acted was unconstitutional; but even if it were good law, they were not respecting it in restricting the public advertising to half the number of papers they were directed to select. Mr. SEWARD took the same view, and added that the clause, if valid, was only for the City, being inserted in a law relating exclusively to raising money for the City, and in which County advertising is not mentioned. The subject was referred to a Special Committee, consisting of Messrs. Stewart, Purdy, Shook and Roche, to obtain legal advice as to the constitutionality, meaning and application of the clause. A communication from the Comptroller transmitting a statement of the amount required to be raised by tax this year for State, City and County purposes, was referred. The appropriations amount in all to $12,614,330 48, for which the general fund provides $1,350,000; an addition of $524,127 47 to the balance, for deficiencies in extending taxes, leaves $11,788,457 95 as the sum to be raised by taxation. The Committee on Criminal Courts and Police reported adversely on the claim of Messrs. EDWIN JAMES and THOMAS DUNPHY, for defending MARY BEAL on the charge of murder at her trial last October, they having been assigned as her counsel by the Court, but proposed an appropriation of $250 to cover their expenses. This was voted, and the Board adjourned to 3 o'clock P. M., on next Tuesday.

Gen. THOMAS FRANCIS MEAGHER was yesterday tendered the hospitalities of the City by the Common Council Committee on National Affairs, and also presented with the Kearny cross. In his speech, declining the honors, Gen. MEAGHER took occasion to denounce the peacemongers as traitors. He reiterated the same sentiments in a subsequent speech at the collation, and was followed by Judge GILBERT DEAN, who likewise denounced the peace men as cowards and traitors.

There was a further rise of two per cent. on Gold Coin yesterday, on the stirring war rumors from Pennsylvania. Exchange rose one per cent. Money easy at seven per cent. U. S. six per cents. of 1881 rose to 100 per cent. The subscriptions to the six per cents. of 1862 amounted to $1,329,000.

Cotton advanced yesterday 1c. ℔ lb., with sales and resales of 2,500 bales. Breadstuffs opened rather briskly with an upward tendency, but were depressed by the Scotia's news, and closed heavily. A fair business was transacted in Hay, Hops, Petroleum, Rio Coffee, Ingot Copper, and the principal kinds of Provisions. Tallow and Whisky were brisker and dearer. Freights were not very active, but were firmer. Other branches of trade presented no really new feature.

The live stock markets show very few changes from last week's report, either in numbers or in prices. Everything in the shape of meat is so high that butchers are economizing its use, and only buy for immediate wants, under the impression that live stock will soon be lower. Beeves count up 4,570 fresh animals and those for the week, and 200 state cattle, have all been sold. Prices have scarcely varied from last week, the range being from 10c. ℔ lb. for ordinary to 11c. for fair quality, and 11½@12c. for prime steers, estimating the number of pounds they will actually dress. The average of all sales is very little short of 11c.... Veal calves are selling quickly at better prices, or 7c.@8c. ℔ lb., live weight. There are not enough to supply butchers.... Sheep are 5c. ℔ lb., live weight, lower, and lambs that much higher than one week ago. Good sheep command prices equivalent to 6½c.@6¾c. ℔ lb., and lambs about 10c. ℔ lb. Stock all sold.... Live hogs are selling readily as fast as they come in, at 5½c.@5¾c. ℔ lb., live weight, for corn-fed, and 5c.@5½c. for still-fed hogs. None left over.

Lee's New Campaign—The Opportunity It Offers Us.

The Northward movement of the rebel army is certainly very audacious, though we are not yet able to divine its precise course, nor the special object it may have in view. We do not even yet know whether it has crossed the mountains or is still on the upper waters of the Rappahannock. Some think that LEE will offer HOOKER battle on the present ground now held by our army, near the old Bull Run battle-fields; others hold that he is going to march his whole army into Pennsylvania by the Shenandoah Valley, and attempt a short campaign in the North; while others think his object is an attack on Washington from the rear. A short time must develop the truth in the matter. His plan and course are doubtless clearly enough marked out in his own mind. But their execution will depend very much upon us. We have already an army in the field near Washington far superior in numbers to his; and twice a hundred thousand volunteers are rushing to arms in the five States nearest to the theatre of operations. If we have energy and vigor in our movements; if we have intelligence and unity in our plan; if we have skill and sagacity in our leadership, there is no reason under Heaven why LEE'S new campaign should not prove as disastrous as it is daring.

We have no strategical plan of campaign to urge; we have no special scheme of action to uphold. The men in Washington are supposed to have the ability to devise proper military plans; and the Generals whom they have placed at the head of the army are supposed to have ability and courage to execute them. But common sense teaches us, as it must show every one, that whether LEE'S army be on the Upper Potomac, in the Shenandoah Valley, or at Warrenton, it is in a position where a superior army stationed in front of Washington, aided by a competent army of occupation in Washington, a cooperating army on the Upper Potomac, and an army of volunteers to be moved at will, should, between them, be able to make it difficult for it to advance very far or to retreat very easily.

The rebels have now given us an opportunity to attack them in a way which, if properly improved, should crush them. They are far away from their capital, far from any proper base of supply, liable to have their communications cut, their flanks assailed, their columns separated, their retreat rendered impossible. To this all-important and imperative work, the Government, the army and the whole nation should now bend every energy and strain every nerve. Every outlying regiment, stationed at unimportant or secondary places, should be—or, rather, should have been—brought to the imminent point; the position of LEE'S main body and the probable line of his movement should be ascertained, and the army confronting it made sufficiently strong, and then should follow such rapid movements and manœuvres as are dictated by military science to secure success under the circumstances.

It is altogether likely that LEE will move very rapidly in the execution of his plan, whatever it may be. He knows already that Pennsylvania and the whole North are rallying to drive him back; and he knew before he advanced that they would do so. He knows that HOOKER will become stronger every day, and that every day will also add immensely to the strength of any position that HOOKER may take up. He knows that every day he remains in the North, Richmond is put in the most imminent peril from an advance of our troops stationed on the Peninsula and at Suffolk. He knows that a Northern campaign, lasting even as long as months, is impossible. He will be likely, therefore, to strike out very quickly and with his whole force. If it is invasion in force, we shall have it this week. If it is a battle with HOOKER, it will not be delayed. If it is an attempt to get into Baltimore, and thus into the rear of Washington, which would be the work of a madman, it will be done with the hot haste and fury of a madman.

We think the strength of the rebel force that has penetrated into Pennsylvania has been vastly exaggerated. We do not see any proof that it is anything but STUART'S cavalry, perhaps aided by artillery and infantry supports.

But still the utmost vigilance, promptitude and courage are necessary. And if our Government and Generals are equal to the occasion, this rebel campaign will close with their army broken up, Richmond captured, and the rebellion, already damaged by so many blows, will receive the blow of death.

An Invitation Accepted.

The frank and cordial manner in which our Southern brethren are responding to the offer of the Ohio Democrats, "to cooperate with them in the restoration of peace," fully justifies the anticipations which we ventured to express on this head a few days ago. We conjectured that as soon as the South heard for the first time that the democracy of the North would "hail with delight" its return to the Union, it would take immediate steps for coming back. It is now evident that the leaders of the rebellion are desirous of meeting as many of their Northern fellow-citizens as can be got together in Convention at either Harrisburgh or Philadelphia; at the date of the last accounts it had not been decided which it was to be. And we may guess how hearty and zealous they are in this great movement, from the enormous size of the delegation which they are sending forward. There is no Peace Democrat who can avoid feeling a glow of satisfaction at the thought that 90,000 or 100,000 of the bone and sinew of the South should have started Northward, to confer and discuss, the minute they heard that the great Peace party would be pleased to see "them return to their allegiance." We doubt if the South has ever yet been so well represented in any of the conferences which she has held with the Northern democracy. The delegation comprises men of all ranks and parties, from the wealthiest planters down to the negro slave, and there is not one of them who is not desirous of staying at the North as long as it will be convenient for us to keep him.

We greatly fear, however, that our reception of them will not be in all respects what it ought to be. Every effort is being need to bring together an equally large number of our population to argue our various differences with them, and we understand that several regiments of volunteers leave this City for Harrisburgh this morning. As far as dress and appearance go, these gentlemen will do very well, but we cast no imputation on our citizen soldiery when we say that they are scarcely the best persons to select to discuss with Southerners the various points of difference between us and the misguided Secessionists. They can, of course, add to the splendor and éclat of the ceremonial, but when it comes to satisfy our friends of our desire to live in peace and harmony with them, and of our willingness to do anything under heaven to keep them in good humor, our readers will, we think, agree with us that we might find better persons to represent us than the State militia. The men for this work are, unquestionably the Peace-promoters. We think Mr. FERNANDO WOOD and Dr. BRADFORD, and as large a portion of the recent "great gathering" at the Cooper Institute as can get away, ought to hurry on as fast as possible to the seat of peace. The Ohio democracy ought also to send forward as large a number of their leading orators and writers as they can spare, and we would suggest that Mr. VALLANDIGHAM ought to head the list. Mr. LINCOLN cannot in decency refuse to grant him permission to return for this great occasion. We may remark, however, that the Southern delegates are all bringing muskets with them, and several rounds of ball-cartridge. This, we presume, is partly for target practice in the intervals of the sittings of the Convention, and for a grand feu de joie when the debates are over, and the Union is restored, as there is no reason to doubt it will be.

It would seem, therefore, to be only proper and courteous that our representatives should be similarly equipped; and, in fact, we have reason to believe that our Southern friends confidently expect they will be. The carrying of arms to a Peace Convention is a novelty, and to some persons it may seem an alarming novelty; but the explanation of it is simple. Several Southern gentlemen are anxious, as far as possible, to adopt the customs of those great European aristocracies whose confrères and successors they believe themselves to be, and amongst others that of Poland, which always assembled in the National Diet with lance and sabre, and on horseback. We cannot, although our pretensions are much more moderate, refuse to follow their example.

There is already a good deal of intriguing, we are sorry to say, as to who is to preside at the Convention. ROBERT LEE, of Virginia, and JOSEPH HOOKER, of California, are both talked of, and both are manœuvring with all their might in aid of their respective claims. EWELL has come on already to canvass for LEE, and his appearance has led to a good deal of wirepulling; but we doubt if anything decisive will take place before the appearance of WOOD and Judge McCUNN upon the scene. We hardly think it likely that the Convention will open before these two great apostles of peace are ready to take part in it; though, in these days, it is dangerous to count upon either the modesty or scrupulousness of such notorious intriguers as both HOOKER and LEE.

MAJ.-GEN. DAN SICKLES.—It is understood that Maj.-Gen. DAN SICKLES will not return for the present, to the Army of the Potomac. We know nothing of the ground on which the rumor to this effect rests. But we are ready to assert, what will certainly meet general concurrence, that the services of this distinguished officer, or of any other of like ability, cannot be very well dispensed with at the present exciting stage of affairs. Maj.-Gen. SICKLES has developed a very high capacity for military service. Whether it be in organization and discipline of men, or in their cool and skillful handling, from a brigade to an army corps in battle, Gen. SICKLES has proved himself thoroughly competent and complete master of himself and of his position. The Excelsior brigade, organized by him mainly from this State, has made a record for patient endurance of hard work, dashing gallantry and heroic steadfastness in the fires of many battles during the past two years of campaigning in Virginia, that no troops of the day can surpass. The brigade is a living and glorious proof of the spirit and skill of the man who organized and trained them for their work.

The Empire State has hundreds of thousands of men who, in proper hands, can be made as good soldiers as any that have hitherto been set in the field. Why is not Major-Gen. SICKLES the man to call them out and mould them into shape and strength as an army? The masses of New-York City alone can form an army of no mean proportions; and they will, if they are properly called out. They know DAN SICKLES; they are familiar with his successful career as a soldier; and they will trust him to the fullest extent as a military leader. And, it is no slight advantage that Gen. SICKLES knows the population of this City, and the leading influences that control it, as well as any man living. If the work required is to get soldiers by the thousand without the conscription, or to enforce the conscription, if need be, for the remainder, what man could do it better than Maj.-Gen. DAN SICKLES?

We do not see why this is not the very best thing for Gen. SICKLES to do. Pennsylvania has been divided into two military districts—the East and the West. New-York State is even more susceptible of such a division than Pennsylvania; and it might be made at once, and Gen. SICKLES placed in command of the Eastern division, with great advantage to the public service in the present imminent danger.

PENNSYLVANIA AND HER GOVERNOR.—The very urgent appeal of Gov. CURTIN, of Pennsylvania, for help to expel the invaders who are expected, this day, to be in sight of Harrisburgh, though addressed to Pennsylvanians only, must excite the earnest sympathy of every one who reads it. It is certainly an insult and a dishonor of no small degree that the Capital of so ancient and so powerful a Commonwealth as Pennsylvania should be threatened by an enemy always deemed contemptible in their numbers and despicable in the cause for which they fight.

In one sense, too, the indignity to Pennsylvania is undeserved, for the State has furnished her full share of soldiers who are even now at the posts of danger, in every field of operation, wherever rebel armies are confronted and the gage of battle given. And there is abundant additional reason for deep personal sympathy with Gov. CURTIN. No Executive of the loyal States has exceeded him in the promptness and cordiality of his cooperation with the National Government during the war. And not one of them has exhibited a more active interest in the welfare of the soldiers. Few indeed have done as much to render the well soldiers happy, by making them realize the interest felt in them at home, and the sick and wounded soldiers resigned, by frequent visits to them in hospitals, and most careful attention to all their wants. Such is Gov. CURTIN'S record, and who can refuse him sympathy now, or withhold the prayer that Pennsylvania's Capital may be saved from the humiliation that seems impending over it?

OUR STREETS.—The City Inspector gives notice this morning that all the obstacles which have heretofore embarrassed the operations of his Department in the matter of street cleaning have now been removed, and he has entered upon the prosecution of his work, including the removal of ashes and garbage, with the whole force at his disposal. He calls upon the people of the City to aid him in his labors, by refraining from throwing ashes, garbage, rubbish and store-sweepings into the streets and gutters; and announces that ash-carts will pass through the streets of the City daily, to collect and carry away the waste material which may be deposited in the barrels and boxes used as receptacles therefor. He promises that he will make every effort to keep the streets in a cleanly and healthy condition; and asks that every neglect on the part of his employes be reported at his office.

It is well that somebody has at last been permitted to take this work in hand. We hope it is taken in hand seriously and honestly. The City has reached a preeminence in filth, over all other American cities, as great as its preeminence in population, enterprise, patriotism and virtue. The effect of its present extraordinary condition was seen in the health return of last week, which showed 406 deaths—being an increase of 56 upon the mortality of the previous week, and of 71 as compared with the mortality of the corresponding week of last year. Disease and death are the inevitable progeny of dirt.

If Mr. DELAVAN will do his work properly and honestly, he will have his reward in good pay and public gratitude—his monument is hundreds of lives spared from death annually—and his memory will be fragrant when the abominable odors of the City are forgotten, which will be long after this generation has passed away. But let him do his work well, and permit or countenance no dishonesty or knavery.

CHARACTERISTIC.—News of the advance of LEE'S army reached Pittsburgh on Sunday, and on the evening of that day the citizens had intelligence that "an immense force was then marching to Pittsburgh, with the avowed object of laying the city in ruins." A dispatch was also received from Gen. HALLECK to the effect that an attack on Pittsburgh was imminent, and that the city should be put in a state of immediate defence. The excitement of course is fever heat, and the manufacturers had a meeting on Sunday night, and resolved that business be temporarily suspended, that the workmen might have an opportunity of fortifying the city. On Monday a crowd of several thousand workmen gathered together, and rumors of the near approach of the rebels also gathered thick and fast. It may be thought that the men rushed headlong to work with pick and shovel, fortifying. Not at all. They marched up to the hotel where the local commander was stopping, and called for a speech! The officer did not gratify them, but the crowd was determined to have a speech from some one, and various gentlemen were called upon. Finally, it is reported, an "old soldier, three sheets in the wind, forced his way to the front of the balcony, and after waving his hand for silence," began his speech, which was soon cut short; but he only gave way to another orator, who "proceeded to address the assemblage." It is well that the rumor of the advance of the rebels, was a little ahead of the fact; for, had they been up to time, they would have found the citizens busily engaged—one class in making speeches, and the other in listening to them. It is but just to say, however, that in the course of the day, and after the able speeches, the audience went actively to work on the fortifications.

MEN IN UNIFORM.—We observed around town last evening a large number of officers and soldiers of the United States. They were evidently not the returned two years' soldiers—for these have nearly all doffed their uniforms. They were not our militia soldiers hastening to the war. They were mostly officers and soldiers on leave of absence, on furlough, and such like. Furloughs have been given out quite freely of late—much exceeding, we believe, either two or three to the hundred men; and leaves of absence to officers of all grades have been extensively granted. We hope some of these gentlemen will now strain a point to get back to their regiments. We should like to have them among us always; but the rebels are now ravaging Pennsylvania, and every soldier we have is needed to drive them back. The nation sustains the prodigious burdens connected with its vast army at present in hope that the rebellion may be speedily crushed. Thus far, in the East, we have not been brilliantly successful; but, if ever circumstances demanded of us a great and united effort, it is at present. Patriotism and honor should lead every absent soldier, who can make it possible, to rush back to the ranks; as it has led thousands of our citizen-militia again to offer their services to the Government. After the war is over, and the rebellion crushed, we will welcome back all our heroes with joy, and crown them with honors as long as they live.

THE STATE SUPPLY.—Gov. CURTIN, of Pennsylvania, has been under the necessity of sending personal appeals to the Governors of various Eastern States to hasten forward the militia of their respective States to aid in the defence of Pennsylvania. The Governor of New-York has received such an appeal, and the Governor of New-Jersey, in his proclamation to "Jerseymen," says that "Pennsylvania, through her Governor, appeals to New-Jersey to aid in driving back the invading army." A perfect military system in Washington would have enabled the national authorities to inaugurate and carry out measures for the defence of the soil of Pennsylvania; but in times of invasion like these, States have not only to aid themselves, but their officers have also to appeal to sister States for aid. Until the close of this rebellion, the militia of every State in the Union should be kept on a war footing.

FROM ALBANY.

The Central Railroad Laborers on a Strike—The Hudson River Railroad Men Demand Nine Shillings per Day.

ALBANY, Tuesday, June 16.

All the Central Railroad laborers are on a strike to-day for higher wages.

The freight houses are closed, and they will not allow a man to work.

About three hundred of the laborers marched to the West Albany workshops and, breaking through the doors, compelled all the mechanics to stop work.

Another party of laborers paraded through the stone yards forcing the men therein to join them.

The strikers number from 600 to 700, and the spirit manifested by them is extending to the private workshops.

The Hudson River Railroad laboring men asked to have their wages increased to nine shillings per day this morning, and Supervisor BARCOM complied with their request.

The Central Railroad laborers ask for twelve shillings a day, and as there is a great quantity of perishable freight on the cars, it is probable they will carry their point.

ALBANY, Tuesday, June 16—P. M.

The Court of Appeals has assigned the 26th inst. to hear arguments on the validity of legal tender notes.

The Central Railroad Company has agreed to pay its laborers twelve shillings per day, and the strikers will resume work to-morrow.

An Attack on Guerrillas.

LOUISVILLE, Tuesday, June 16.

Capt. HARE, of the Mounted Provost-Guard, attacked HIGH'S Guerrillas, at Wilson's Creek, near Boston, Ky., on Saturday, killing four and capturing five prisoners and twenty-five horses, and a lot of rifles and equipments. The rebels fled. There was no loss on our side.

The Pirate Tacony.

LEWES, Del., Monday, June 15.

The rebel privateer Tacony, or Florida No. 2, was seen on the morning of the 14th northeast of Indian River Inlet, distant about 50 miles. The British schooner Arctic, which she boarded on the 13th, left the Breakwater yesterday and proceeded up.

THE SIEGE OF VICKSBURGH.

CHEERING ADVICES TO THE 12TH INST.

Scarcity of Rations and Ammunition in the City.

Joe Johnston Occupying Canton and Yazoo City.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, June 16.

Official advices from Vicksburgh, dated 11 h, have been received here. They are of the most cheering general character. Our artillery and mortars continue to play upon the town.

Three females, who were put outside the city by Gen. PEMBERTON, assert that the garrison is short of ammunition. Provisions are scarce, and not to be bought at any price. The garrison is subsisting on quarter rations, mainly of cornmeal and peas.

The women and children seek shelter in caves from our shot and shell, which fall heavily on the city, and consequently but few lives are lost among them.

The enemy occupies Canton and Yazoo City in considerable force.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, June 16.

The President to-night received advices from Gen. GRANT'S army to the 12th. At that date matters were progressing favorably for the National cause.

REBEL NEWS ABOUT VICKSBURGH.

Desponding Utterances of the Press.

The Fall of the Rebel Stronghold Anticipated.

POSITION OF GEN. JOHNSTON'S ARMY.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

MURFREESBORO, Monday, June 15.

A letter in the Knoxville Register, of the 9th inst., from Meridian, says:

"The Proclamation of Gov. PETTUS and Gen. JOHNSTON, urging the people of Mississippi to rise en masse to take up arms, will add but little strength to the Southern armies. By some agency, the people were induced to misconstrue the probable results of a revolution, in which with unparalleled zeal they embarked their lives and fortunes. An invasion of their State was not anticipated. They believed that Kentucky and Tennessee would furnish all the battle-fields and that the actual presence of an invading army was impossible. A few counties will respond nobly to the call for volunteers; but from all indications it will be found impossible to arouse the population generally. The Mississippians in many instances deem Vicksburgh already lost, and when the results of this event are contemplated, we may well deplore them. How long can Gen. JOHNSTON maintain his position in the vicinity of Jackson if GRANT holds Vicksburgh, reinforced from PORTER'S fleet and from BANKS. How long can the army which is now too small to cross the Big Black, hold Jackson? In very truth the news from Jackson is conflicting and unsatisfactory; but if little news comes through Federal and Confederate lines, the proclamation of Gen. JOHNSTON and of Gov. PETTUS, have induced men to expect the worst. There is no suffering, not losses, nor dangers that can be borne which the defenders of Vicksburgh will not endure to the utmost rather than capitulate. If this must occur, the first stand made by our forces will be on the Big Black and at Jackson, which is now being fortified. A flank movement from Port-Hudson below, and from different points along Yazoo above, will force our troops to retreat toward Meridian and Mobile, and thus we will be driven from the Mississippi."

The Chattanooga Rebel, of the 13th inst., contains an account of matters near Vicksburgh, derived from a gentleman who had lately come from central Mississippi. It says:

"It has been generally known that Gen. JOHNSTON'S army had concentrated at Jackson, with but little artillery, means of transportation and commissary supplies. It was necessary to withhold this information from our own people, who were expecting immediate action, for obvious reasons. We have the strongest assurances, however, that these deficiencies have been supplied. JOHNSTON has his right resting on the Yazoo River, near Yazoo City, and his left at a point on the Southern Railroad, west of Jackson. He is constantly on the field, and his troops are kept on the alert, more for the purpose of inuring them to the fatigue of active campaign than for that of watching the enemy. For the latter purpose he has sent a large cavalry force of veterans, used to the service, and under the leadership of skillful leaders."

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Tuesday, June 16.

THE QUESTION AS TO RANKING MAJOR-GENERAL.

The following-named gentlemen compose the Board which met to-day to settle the question of precedence of rank raised by Maj.-Gen. BUTLER, as between himself and Maj.-Gen. MCCLELLAN, FREMONT, BANKS and DIX:

Brigs.-Gen. Totten, Meigs and Martindale; Col. Townsend, Judge-Advocate General HOLT, and Capt. Scott, as Recorder.

It is understood that the delay in the printing of the Army Register is owing to the unsettled question of precedence of rank, as raised by Maj.-Gen. BUTLER.

ARTILLERY.

The division of artillery in the Army of the Potomac has been broken up and organized into a reserve for the whole army, except five batteries, selected from each corps, which have been organized into artillery brigades, one to each corps.

LABORERS FOR HONDURAS.

John Hosea, of London, comes here accredited by the English authorities to obtain laborers for a Honduras Company, who own large tracts of land in Central America. Mr. MITCHELL, Commissioner of Emigration, has given him a letter, requesting the cooperation of citizens of this country in this enterprise, which is indorsed by the President. Mr. Hosea's object is to operate among the free colored people, whom he proposes to colonize in Honduras free of expense.

NAVAL.

Surgeon EDWARD GREENMAN has been ordered to the San Jacinto, as Fleet Surgeon of the Eastern Gulf Blockading Squadron.

Chief Engineer KIMBALL has been ordered to special duty at New-York.

A STAMPEDE OF SLAVES.

On Sunday night some slaves in the neighborhood of Annapolis stampeded, taking with them a wagon and cart, with horses, and a portion of their personal effects. They traveled all night, and at various points on the road were reinforced until their number reached seventy-five. Yesterday morning, they were stopped near Long Old Fields, by a number of men styling themselves patrols, armed with shot guns and pistols. But the party of slaves massed themselves and passed on. The patrollers attempted to stop their progress or to drive them from their teams, and when about one mile from Fort Meigs fired into the fugitives, when, it is said, one of the slaves returned the fire, and several other shots were discharged. The party of fugitives then separated and fled, and the patrollers also disappeared. As far as known two men and one woman (slaves) were killed and five were wounded. The remainder have reached Washington. One of those supposed to have been connected with the attacking party has been arrested and committed to the Old Capitol prison.

IMPORTANT FROM KEY WEST.

A SEVERE GALE ON THE FLORIDA COAST.

Two of Our Blockading Vessels Wrecked.

INVESTIGATION OF PRIZE CASES.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Key West, Friday, June 12, 1863.

A severe gale occurred at Apalachicola, Florida, a few days since, during which two of our vessels were wrecked at the entrance to that harbor and totally lost. The steamer Hendrik Hudson, Capt. Gatz, has just arrived from there and from Capt. Gatz I learn these particulars: That the gunboat bark Amanda being at anchor at her usual station, broke loose from her moorings and drifted across the bay to the mainland in despite of all their efforts to save her. Being unable to get her off, she was stripped and blown up to keep her from the rebels. No lives lost. The barkentine Andrew Henderson, being there with a load of coal for supplying naval vessels, was also driven ashore and her masts, spars, sails and rigging were entirely swept clean from her deck by the violence of the gale. She is a total loss. The gunboat steamer Fort Henry was driven to sea and weathered the storm. The Hendrik Hudson brings a prize cargo of cotton and about thirty-five refugee passengers, who have escaped from Dixie, bringing with them some furniture and baggage. They make the usual report of destitution and the absence of laboring men.

Prize vessels continue to be brought in here, and the Admiralty Court is fully occupied in investigating their cases, a very large majority of which are condemned. In fact it is somewhat rare that one is released, and the records of the Prize Court at Key West may be appealed to as a complete proof of the moderation and fidelity of our cruisers. The number of captures without cause have been so very small as to indicate the wisdom and sagacity of our commanders, and leave no grounds for complaint or remonstrance from honest neutral commerce. Some of these prize cases are curious and interesting, as showing the peculiarly chivalrous character of the enterprising individuals thus engaged. For instance, the steamer Victor followed in the wake of our steamer Juniata, out of the harbor of Havana, and with the accommodating English colors flying at her mast-head kept her company for about ten miles from the harbor, when the Juniata sent an officer on board, and requested the Captain's presence on board the cruiser. Here he was highly indignant that his movement was interfered with, and proclaiming in earnest terms his childlike innocence of any thought of running the blockade, proposed to swear on a stack of Bibles to the truth of his declaration. The Captain of the Juniata was much impressed with the chinalry of his captive, but concluded to bring him along to Key West for a further hearing, and soon introduced him to the Prize Commissioner, Capt. Wason, as a high-minded man, who was unfortunate in being found at sea with some informality in his papers. Here the blockade runner was at once recognized as having but a short time since been interested in the schooner Ascension, condemned here, and will doubtless meet the same fate with his present investment. Another, the British steamer Pearl, was captured on the Bahamas, from Glasgow for Nassau, with some bales of gray woolen army blankets. It was pretended that these were for the use of the military guard of Nassau, and that the steamer was purchased by ADDERLY & Co., of Nassau, to transport coals from New-Brunswick to Nassau. In view of the fact that the steamer draws only 4 feet of water, and is 180 feet long and 14 wide, with side wheels, and can carry only sufficient coals to last her own consumption for about ten days, there is some disposition to doubt the truthfulness of these pretensions. The claimants are here, and whilst they give out that she is to be released and restored to them, are unfortunately found to hesitate about taking the neutrality oath, which is now recently administered to all such persons. They will find it indispensable to entirely satisfy the mind of His Honor Judge MERVIN that the Pearl was bona fide purchased for and designed to carry coals to Nassau from New-Brunswick, and that ADDERLY & Co. ordered the military jackets for the express use of the Island Guards of Nassau, before they can again enter upon the deck of the Pearl, although their engineer and crew have been retained in waiting. To accomplish this, it is most probable that such Falstaffian swearing will be indulged in as will put to shame the deeds of olden time.

Another master of a blockade runner upon being examined by the Prize Commissioner touching his capture, was highly indignant at and refused to answer questions that he claimed would criminate himself. The Commissioner granted him that there was no direct power to take his secret from him, but that authority existed for placing him where he would have ample time for quiet reflection, which might result in making him a willing witness. With this prospect he suddenly became more pliant and accommodating, disclosing valuable information in reference not only to his own vessel, but of much importance in its bearing on other cases.

These blockade runners as a class are a set of men who seem to have laid aside their sense of moral obligation and responsibility. We have many of them here constantly, and they can at all times of day be seen sitting around in public places with nothing to do but scheme and talk. Their influence on our population is unwholesome, and has already led away numbers of young men and boys to engage in this adventurous employment. Sometimes these blockade runners forget themselves, and indulge in conversation not entirely loyal to our cause, and a few of them have had quarters inside of Fort Taylor, which keeps before them a wholesome restraint.

There is considerable prize cotton now here for shipment to New-York soon, for sale. The number of prizes and amount of property in them that have been brought to this port in the last four weeks exceeds in amount that of any other four weeks during the war. The ship S. R. Mallory sailed on Saturday last with a full cargo of prize goods for New-York. The seven mutineers of the ship Sparkling Sea were sent in her, en route for Washington, where they are to serve two years in prison.

The prize schooner Mississippian, laden with cotton, captured by the De Soto, and about which there was much anxiety lest she might have been lost, has at last arrived, in tow of the Ascension, having been in a gale and been dismasted. She has 180 bales of cotton. The steamer Eagle has been condemned as legal prize to the captors.

Diseases of the Eye, Ear & Throat,
CATARRH CURED
BY
DR. VON EISENBERG.

Author of "Surgical and Practical Observations on the Diseases of the Ear, with his new Mode of Treatment."

NEW TESTIMONY.

"NEW-YORK, May 8.

I was entirely deaf in my left ear, accompanied by a discharge. I placed myself under Dr. Von Eisenberg's care, who, by his great skill, restored me to perfect hearing, in the short space of a few minutes, without giving me the slightest pain, and the discharge has ceased entirely. The Eustachian Tube, which was obliterated, is quite open, and I feel that the air-passage performs its functions. I am amply satisfied, and recommend every one suffering from impaired hearing to place themselves under the treatment of this eminent and successful physician.

THOMAS GRANAN, No. 830 6th-av."

"NEW-YORK, May 7, 1863.

I have great pleasure to testify to the skill of Dr. Von Eisenberg. I went into his office almost completely deaf, and came out with my perfect hearing. It is nearly twelve months since, and the hearing is perfect. The operation, which lasted two or three minutes in each of my ears, gave me no pain whatsoever. I, with confidence, recommend all sufferers to place themselves under Dr. Von Eisenberg's unsurpassing skill.

SAMUEL C. HUNT,
No. 6 Meserole-av., Greenpoint, L. I."

"No. 199 MADISON-ST., NEW-YORK, Feb. 9, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a dangerous discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

I consulted Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his mode of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain.

JOHN TAYLOR.

NEW-YORK, July 19, 1862.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears a great quantity of matter, together with coagulated blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. It is with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CARROLL J. POST, No. 28 Southst.

No. 23 FORSYTH-ST., ROOM No. 69, NEW-YORK.

J. H. VON EISENBERG, M. D.—Dear Doctor: I have been afflicted with total deafness, and was induced to pay you a visit. Who can imagine my delight when, after one operation, my hearing was suddenly, and without pain, restored to me, for which I feel very grateful.

After being totally deaf—almost shut out from the pleasures of using so necessary a sense—to have it returned, and to hear so distinctly, reflects great credit on you for the immense amount of skill you possess. I beg to thank you for what I can so truly appreciate. I am, Sir, your obedient servant.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.

HEAD

NEW-YORK, March 20, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up, with difficult breathing, and tightness in the breast, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flashes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with little hope of a cure. I am now happy to be able to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so high a reputation. I take pleasure in recommending to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

Its value in this respect has become so well known, that scientific men in every department of medical knowledge begin to appreciate it, for hardly a week passes that he is not consulted by druggists, chemists and physicians in regard to some pitiful patient who has exhausted the whole field of the faculty, and still the disease will appear. Its popularity is so great that there is not a quack doctor in the City that has not attacked it, and when they find their lies are not so easily swallowed, they then pretend that they can make it. It is $1 a vial; and can be obtained genuine at any reputable drug store. Office, No. 3 Division-st. Book for 25 three-cent stamps. Beware of imitations. The best work on ...

FOR TIMBER AND MATERIALS FOR THE NAVY.
NAVY DEPARTMENT, ...
SEALED PROPOSALS, &c., for Timber and materials for the Navy for the fiscal year ending with June next, will be received at the Bureau of Construction and Repair until the 20th day of June next.
Proposals must be indorsed "Proposals for Timber and materials for the Navy," that they may be distinguished from other business letters, and directed to the Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair.
The materials and articles required in the manner and are particularly specified in the printed schedules, any of which will be furnished to such as desire to offer, on application to the Commandants of the navy-yards, or to the Navy Agent nearest thereto, and to every bidder who shall apply for the same. This direction has closed better for the convenience of dealers in wash, such persons only will be furnished as are actually required for bids. The Commandant and Navy Agent of each station will, in addition to the schedule of articles of their own yards, have a copy of the schedules of the other yards for examination only, from which it may be judged whether it will be desirable to make application for any of the classes of those yards.
Offers must be made for the whole of the class at any yard upon one of the printed schedules, or in strict conformity therewith, or they will not be considered. In computing the clause the price stated in the column of prices will be the standard, and the aggregate of the class will be carried out according to the prices stated.
The schedule which the bidder incloses must be pasted to his offer, and each of them signed by him. Opposite each article in the schedule the price must be set, the amount carried out, the aggregate footed up for each class, and the amount likewise written in words. If the parties who bid do not reside near the place where the articles are to be delivered, they must name in their offer a person to whom orders on them are to be delivered.
The contracts will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder who gives proper security for the fulfillment. The United States reserves the right to reject all the bids for any class, if deemed exorbitant.
All articles must be of the very best quality, to be delivered in the navy yards in good order, and in suitable vessels and packages, properly marked with the name of the contractor, at the place may be, at the expense and risk of the contractor, and in all respects subject to the inspection, measurement, count, weight, &c., of the yard where received, and to the entire satisfaction of the Commandant thereof.
Bidders are referred to the Commandants of the respective yards for samples, instructions, or particular description of the articles; and, all other things being equal, preference will be given to articles of American manufacture.
Every offer, as required by the law of 16th August, 1846, must be accompanied by a written guarantee, the form of which is given below.
And also by a certificate signed by the Collector of Internal Revenue for the District in which the bidder resides, that he has a known place of dealer in the article for which he proposes, or by an affidavit signed by himself and sworn to before some magistrate authorized to administer such oath, that he is "a manufacturer of or regular dealer in the articles which he offers to supply."
Those only whose offers may be accepted will be notified, and the contract will be forwarded as soon thereafter as practicable, which they will be required to execute within ten days after the receipt at the post-office or Navy Agency named by them, and they will affix thereto the requisite Internal Revenue stamps.
The contractors will be paid the day the notification is given, and deliveries can be demanded.
Sureties in the full amount will be required to sign the contract, and their responsibility certified to by a United States District Judge, United States District-Attorney, Collector or Navy Agent. An additional security, ten per centum will be withheld from the amount of the bills until the contract shall have been completed; and eight per centum of each bill, approved in triplicate by the comm. ndants of the respective yards, will be paid by the Navy Agent at the points of delivery within ten days after the warrant for the same shall have been passed by the Secretary of the Treasury.
It will be stipulated in the contract that if default is made by the parties of the first part in delivering all or any of the articles mentioned in any class bid for in the contract, of the quality and at the time and places above provided, then, and in that case, the contractor and his sureties will forfeit and pay to the United States a sum of money not exceeding twice the amount of such class, which may be recovered from him by time, according to the act of Congress in that case provided, approved March 3, 1823.
Bids must not contain classes for more than one yard in the same envelope, and bidders are requested to inclose on the envelope the Navy-yard for which the bid is made.

THE INVASION OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Pennsylvanian, who has proved an gallant and devotion to country on many battle-fields—I refer to that distinguished soldier, Gen. HUMPHREYS—informed—I learn that the enemy intend to come into your State, for the purpose of destroying your property with fire and sword, and he appears to go to have the people aroused to protect their property. You now have all the news I can impart to you.

A large rebel army is approaching our borders. LEE's whole army is in motion in this direction. It is time we should meet it. While there has been left in Pennsylvania, who is faithful to the honor and integrity of the old Commonwealth, Great God, can we stand idle! (Tremendous cheering and cries of "No!")

The President modified the call of last week. (Here the Governor recited the substance of the new call.) That is a call for your defence alone, and is an evidence of generosity on the part of the Government, and a concession to the people of this State that we should not be unmolested. (Immense cheering.) He referred to the fact that the Legislature of this State had offered money in advance for the payment of expenses and the relief of families. He had received a dispatch, to-day, from the principal moneyed men of Philadelphia, tendering, as the first installment, no less than one million of dollars! (Great applause.)

In consideration of all this, I can imagine nothing more favorable. I hope the enemy will not come; I hope that our labors will go for nothing, if unnecessary, that the honor of Pennsylvania may be sustained.

But I think they are coming; I believed last Fall they were coming. Our gallant demonstrations then caused the enemy to retreat, and they left us, as they must do again. The people are rising to hurl back the tide of invasion that is to pollute our soil.

We must be true to the sacred history of the past, we must be true to the thirty-five thousand Pennsylvanians who have fallen on the field of battle, who have died for our defence. (Overwhelming applause.) We will use all the means in our power, and trust in God for victory.

Gen. CADWALDER thanked the Governor for his brave remarks. Every brave man in the State is ready to fight the good fight. (Cheers.)

Gen. COVODE was called, who, after a moment's conference with the Governor, said he had been appointed to command the Department of the Susquehanna. He was a stranger in this State, but he knew of many Pennsylvanians who had fought under him, and who fought most nobly, for which God be praised! He said he was not accustomed to speak further.

Gen. CURTIN said that Pennsylvania had lost between thirty and forty thousand of her sons in defence of the nation, her people might at least know what were the prospects; on how many men, on what kind of force we could rely.

Gen. COVODE replied that he would not give the public knowledge; there might be a spy in the room now. (Laughter.) I am willing to do all the work I can. (Cheers.)

Muster-rolls were then prepared, and all who had not already joined organizations were signing the rolls when this report closed.

A rebel scout, while in the vicinity of Chambersburgh to-day, was captured and brought before Gen. COVODE. Among the questions asked were: To what regiment do you belong? Answer—Seventh. Q.—Seventh what? A.—Seventh regiment. Q.—To what company do you belong? A.—Can't say. Q.—What is the letter of your company? A.—Got no letters. Q.—To what corps do you belong? A.—Don't belong to any. Q.—What were you doing in Chambersburgh? A.—Looking around. Q.—Your name? A.—Got none.

No information whatever could be got out of him. He is tall and well formed, a giant in strength, but a thicker specimen of humanity could not be found. He had no papers in his possession, in his look and manner he was very impudent, saying very little.

About seven carloads of women and children arrived here from Chambersburgh by the Cumberland Valley Railroad, this morning, at 11½ o'clock.

Many strangers are in town, among them politicians and ex-members of the Legislature.

HARRISBURGH, Monday, June 15—10½ o'clock.

The excitement is intense. The fourth meeting of the day has just been called at the Court-house. Very many are searching the State Arsenal and the Governor's Department. The old title deeds and portraits were in boxes, and all the records are properly disposed of. The Governor is in earnest consultation with some of the ablest men in the State. The rebels will meet with a warm reception, but to defeat them thoroughly, Philadelphia should send her troops at once. You have already received notice of the capture of a rebel at Chambersburgh. The capture amounts to nothing, as he was only a prisoner who had escaped from a train.

My advices indicate that the operator has just left Chambersburgh. He has been heard from on this side.

A CALL FROM GOV. CURTIN.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE PENNSYLVANIA MILITIA, HARRISBURGH, June 15, 1863.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 42.—First—To repel the threatened and imminent invasion of Pennsylvania by the enemies of the country, the President of the United States has this day issued his proclamation for fifty thousand volunteers to serve for a period of six months, if not sooner discharged, to be subsisted, equipped and paid by the United States as promptly as other troops in the service.

Second—All organizations or companies of men responding to this call will at once report, by telegraph, the place of their rendezvous, that orders may be issued from the Departmental Headquarters of Maj.-Gen. COVODE, at this city, for transportation to Harrisburgh, and of Maj.-Gen. BOGERS, at Pittsburgh, for transportation to Pittsburgh, or such other points as may be deemed expedient.

Third—Troops rendezvoused at Harrisburgh and Pittsburgh will be mustered into the United States service at those points, and those ordered to rendezvous elsewhere will be mustered in at the place of their respective rendezvous by mustering officers detailed for that duty. By order of

A. G. CURTIN,
Governor and Commander-in-Chief.
A. L. RUSSELL, Adjutant-General.

THE MILITIA

Excitement Among Our City Soldiery.

Orders from Gov. Seymour---The Division and Brigadier Generals.

THE TROOPS READY.

THEY MARCH TO-DAY.

In accordance with the National requisition and the call of the State authorities, the militia of our City and of the neighboring city have responded promptly and without reserve.

The order of Gov. SEYMOUR to the First Division, comprising the regiments of this City and of Staten Island, to be ready to march at once to Philadelphia, was received here at nine o'clock on Monday evening. Orders founded thereon were at once issued by Brig.-Gens. SICKEL, YATES, HALL, and EWEN, to the commandants of the city regiments, all of whom responded with alacrity.

The spirit of the men of the regiments is equal to the emergency. At no time since the commencement of the war has more general enthusiasm been manifested; and it is probable that within a period of three days the number of men promised from this city could be nearly doubled.

It is quite certain that this result could be accomplished if the general officers of the division command the troops ordered into the service. They cannot, however, serve with full ranks for the term of six months. Their private affairs prevent their entering the service for so long a time; but they are ready to take the field until the army of LEE has been driven back or captured.

The State Guard regiment is about to recognize the Sixty-ninth regiment of this City as belonging to the National Guard of the State. It will be remembered that the regiment has been reorganized on various occasions, and that the men in this City, now numbering six hundred, desire to be recognized as the original Sixty-ninth.

If this is done, a point long one of difficulty and the occasion of animosities, will be settled.

A telegram was received from Gov. SEYMOUR at 12 o'clock yesterday, ordering the regiments to be in perfect readiness to depart at the shortest notice. Transportation for one regiment was obtained, and arrangements were completed for carrying the troops to the scene of the invasion.

So far as the men are concerned, they evinced at the first intimation the greatest willingness and anxiety to be off at once, and among the departures to-day will be many whose duties at home are such that no private pleasure or personal gratification would have been deemed a sufficient excuse for absence, but who leave business and home duty to look out for themselves while they go to the rescue.

THE FIRST BRIGADE.

The following order has been issued by Gen. SICKEL:

HEADQUARTERS FIRST BRIGADE, N. Y. S. N. G., New-York, June 16, 1863.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief of the State of New-York, the several regiments of this brigade will hold themselves in [illegible] to proceed to the defence of Pennsylvania and the capital of the nation, on short notice. By order of

Gen. FARGO, of the Second Brigade, has issued the following order:

HEADQUARTERS SECOND BRIGADE, N. G. S. N. Y., New-York, June 16, 1863.

STIRRING APPEAL FROM COL. BENDIX.

Col. BENDIX, of the gallant Tenth, so recently returned from service, has issued the following rally call:

THE TENTH REGIMENT N. Y. V., RALLY!

The audacious rebel invasion of a loyal sister State has brought the war to our own borders. The Tenth regiment, its recent commander feels assured, will be willing to respond to a call to defend that State in this hour of its peril, and thus reap additional laurels to those with which it was crowned in many battle fields. I would earnestly call the members of my former command—the gallant Tenth—to assemble at its original headquarters—the Mercer House—corner of Broome and Mercer streets—at 2 P. M. to-day, preparatory to a reorganization for a brief campaign. All members of returned two-years' regiments are respectfully requested to be present at the meeting. Col. JOHN E. BENDIX.

Maj. JOHN MESLINE.

Aid Tendered by the Common Council.

Alderman THOMAS FARLEY, the Chairman of the Committee on National Affairs, in consultation with the suggestion of the Committee, sent the following:

CITY HALL, NEW-YORK, June 16, 1863.

Your message tendering aid to defend Pennsylvania has been received. We need troops; if you can send regiments please do so. Gov. SEYMOUR telegraphed last night he was preparing to send troops to Harrisburgh. They should be forwarded via Easton and Reading. The enemy are approaching this city.

Very respectfully, A. G. CURTIN.

CITY HALL, NEW-YORK, June 16, 1863.

To His Excellency Horatio Seymour, Governor of the State of New-York, Albany, N. Y.:

SIR: In view of the sudden rebel raid into our sister State of Pennsylvania, it would seem to demand that all available force of men and aid by means, should be at once afforded, to assist in the general protection.

Understanding that you contemplate ordering out the State Militia in this City for that purpose, the Committee on National Affairs of the Common Council of New-York have directed me to address you, to ascertain whether the Committee of the Common Council can in any way assist in speedily moving the militia of this City where their services may be needed; or whether, in any other manner, our good offices can be available in this hour of need?

RESPONSE

was had:

ALBANY, June 16—12, 15.

Terence Farley, Chairman Committee on National Affairs:

I shall avail myself of your aid. I have ordered troops to march at once to defend Pennsylvania. Hasten to see you here. HORATIO SEYMOUR.

Important Meeting of Generals and Colonels of the First Division.

Yesterday evening, after the return of Maj.-Gen. SANDFORD from Albany, a meeting of the Generals and officers of the First division was held in the division armory, corner of White and Elm streets.

Gen. SANDFORD explained the object of the consultation between himself and the Governor, and said he had assembled them for the purpose of taking immediate action for transporting troops to the seat of war, where they were at once required.

Besides Major-Gen. SANDFORD, Brig.-Gens. HALL, YATES and SICKEL were present, as were also Cols. Tellier, Binger, Mason, Lefferts, Varian, Marshof, Ward, Aspinwall, Roome, Bagley and Trafford.

A telegram was read from the Secretary of War requesting that the order of the President be complied with at once; and stating that the call of the Government was now for three months, which, in all probability, might be limited to thirty days; that they were to report at once to Gen. COVODE, and that means for their transportation had been provided by three routes, namely, the Camden and Amboy, New-Jersey Central and Delaware and Raritan.

A telegram was read from the Secretary of War, which stated strongly expressed a desire to be placed under their own Generals in the field, and that this wish will be fully presented to the Secretary of War.

The following regiments are to leave this day for Harrisburgh: The Fourth Cavalry, Seventh N. Y. S. M., N. G., Eleventh N. Y. S. M., and the Seventy-first N. Y. S. M.

At the meeting last night the following regiments, composing the First division, were told off to proceed to Harrisburgh, and to report to Gen. COVODE:

Fourth cavalry	480	Thirty-seventh infantry	300
Fifth infantry	500	Fifty-fifth infantry (5 companies in the field)	150
Sixth infantry	450	Sixty-ninth infantry	600
Seventh infantry	400	Seventy-first infantry	500
Eleventh infantry	300
Twelfth infantry	250	Total number of men	3,880
Twenty-second infantry	500

THE BROOKLYN MEN READY.

The excitement in Brooklyn was equal to that of our own city. Brig.-Gen. C. SMITH, of the Eleventh brigade, issued the following ORDER.

HEADQUARTERS, ELEVENTH BRIGADE, N. G., S. N. Y., BROOKLYN, June 15, 1863.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 3.—The Twenty-second, Forty-seventh, Fifty-second, and Fifty-sixth regiments National Guard, of the State of New-York, are hereby ordered to hold themselves in readiness to go to Philadelphia, at once, on short service, in compliance with orders from HORATIO SEYMOUR, Commander-in-Chief.

Commandants of these regiments will see that this order is promptly complied with, and report the progress made by them to me, at the Twenty-second regiment Armory, corner of Fulton and Orange streets, Brooklyn.

By order of J. C. SMITH,
Brig.-Gen. Commanding Eleventh Brigade, N. G., S. N. Y.
BENJAMIN HASKELL, Brigade Maj. and Inc.

In consequence of the order from Gov. SEYMOUR, sent to him, and to Gen. CROOKE, reading as follows:

ALBANY, June 16.

Brig.-Gen. Phillip S. Crooke, Commanding Fifth Brigade, N. G.:

Order all regiments under your command to be ready at once to go to Philadelphia on short service.

HORATIO SEYMOUR.

In the Fifth brigade but two regiments are available, the Thirteenth and Twenty-eighth; the Fourteenth is at the seat of war, the Seventieth being cavalry, will not be accepted. The Eleventh brigade comprises the Twenty-sixth, Forty-seventh, Fifty-second and Fifty-sixth, all fully equipped, making in all six regiments ready for service from this city. These regiments will muster an average of about three hundred and fifty men each, all fully drilled and equipped and ready for immediate service.

The regiments assembled as follows:

Fifth Brigade.—Thirteenth Regiment, Col. WOODWARD, and the Twenty-eighth, Col. BENNETT, at the armory, corner of Henry and Cranberry streets.

Eleventh Brigade.—Twenty-third Regiment, Col. EVERDELL, at the Arsenal, Portland avenue.

Forty-seventh Regiment, Col. MESSEROLE, at the Odeon, Fifth street, E. D.

Fifty-second Regiment, Col. MATHEW T. CLER, at No. 355 Fulton-street.

Fifty-sixth Regiment, Col. J. Q. ADAMS, at the Arena in Raymond-street, near Fulton-street.

THE THIRTEENTH.

Col. WOODWARD, of the Thirteenth, received a telegram at 1 o'clock yesterday morning from Gov. SEYMOUR, ordering him to hold his regiment in readiness to proceed to Philadelphia, at notice, for short service. The officers were immediately notified to assemble their commands, which being obeyed, a regimental order to assemble the entire companies, fully armed and equipped, in readiness for further orders. The regiment has about five hundred men, uniformed, and the men are fully as enthusiastic as they were two years ago, when they obeyed the first call of the President.

All the regiments will be ready to march this afternoon or evening, unless delayed for the want of transportation.

Two regiments belonging to Orange County, attached to the Fifth brigade, are also ordered to march, and will leave either to-day or to-morrow.

There appears to be no difficulty in obtaining soldiers. The armories last night were swarming with persons anxious to shoulder a musket. The Thirteenth and Twenty-third appeared to have the most applicants, although the others are but very little behind.

The prospects were last night that they would be sent off this afternoon.

Carlisle, Penn.

The rebels are reported to be near the town of Carlisle, Penn., which is one day's march from Harrisburgh. If it be true that they are burning the towns that they reach, Carlisle will be a victim certainly; but even if some are spared, this town will probably be doomed to destruction because of the existence there of a United States Military School and other Government buildings.

Carlisle is the capital of Cumberland County. It is situated on the Cumberland Valley Railroad, and is a very handsome town, containing about 6,000 inhabitants. The surrounding country is beautiful and highly cultivated. The town is well built, with wide and spacious streets, a public square, on which stand the public buildings of a superior order. Dickinson College, one of the oldest institutions of the country, founded in 1782, and now under the care of the Methodists, is located here. There are eleven churches, four newspaper offices, a Town Hall, Bank and Young Ladies' Seminary. Half a mile from the town are a United States School for cavalry practice and barracks for several thousand men. These barracks were built in 1777, chiefly by Hessian troops made prisoners at Trenton. During the Whisky Insurrection in 1794, Gen. WASHINGTON had his headquarters at Carlisle, and a few years previously Major ANDRE, subsequently executed as a spy, passed some time here as a prisoner of war.

An Ineffectual Search of the Vessel.

THE INSURRECTION IN POLAND.

A Note from Mr. Seward Declining to Participate in the Proposed Intervention.

The Royal Mail steamship Scotia, Capt. JUDKINS, which sailed from Liverpool at 11 A. M. on the 6th, and from Queenstown on the evening of the 7th inst., arrived here early yesterday morning, making a remarkably fine passage—less than ten days.

ENGLAND.

AMERICAN TOPICS.

In the absence of further news from America the English journals are more than usually dumb in regard to American affairs.

THE VESSELS DESTROYED BY THE FLORIDA.

The following is the report of the bark Jacob, arrived at Liverpool, from Talcahuana:

"May 18, in lat. 26 N., lon. 42 W., spoke the bark Regalia, from Montevideo for Liverpool. The Captain of said vessel said he had on board four seamen, part of the crew of the American bark Henrietta, of Baltimore, which vessel was captured and destroyed near the equator by the Confederate steamer Florida. The Captain of the Regalia, being short of water, asked me to receive two of the men on board the Jacob, which I agreed to, and he sent them on board. Their names are WM. EVANS and HENRY G. WAGNER. These men state that, while they were on board the Florida, (about twenty-four hours,) she captured and burnt the American ship Oneida, from Calcutta, with 1800 tons, sikes, &c. They describe the Florida as a rakish screw-steamer, (bark rigged,) about 1,000 tons, armed with two 120-pounders, pivot guns, and six 24-pounders, carriage guns.

W. J. SPLATT, Master."

The Oneida, Capt. PORTER, sailed from Shanghai for New-York on the 22d of January.

[We have already had news of the destruction of these vessels.]

THE SUSPECTED CONFEDERATE STEAMER AT CARDIFF.

The Bristol Post states that Earl RUSSELL sent an order to the Collector of Customs at Cardiff to search the steamer Lord Clyde before she left that port. Accordingly, seventeen men boarded the Lord Clyde at a late hour on Friday night, and at once commenced ripping open several bales of clothing, &c., which were stowed among the cargo of coals, which were consigned to a party in Nassau. The officers, not being content with cutting open the bales, actually took up two planks in the hold, thinking to find arms, &c., but nothing of the kind was discovered. The broker for the Lord Clyde was on board during the search, and has since protested, on behalf of the owners, against the search, which was not completed without injuring some portions of the noble vessel. A claim for damages has been made. Scarcely had the custom-house officers finished their work when orders were given by the Captain to proceed to sea, the tide coming up fast and answering his purpose; in fact, one of the officers had not time to get ashore, and he was taken away and landed at Coombe.

From the Liverpool Journal of Commerce, June 9.

A good deal of commotion has been caused among the ship-owners and brokers of the docks, through the strange conduct of the United States Consul of the port attempting to interfere with the loading of the steamship Lord Clyde. This splendid vessel arrived from Greenock, a distance of 60 miles, the day before, and is stated to be of extraordinary swiftness and power. Her paddle-boxes being too large for entrance into the East Bute Dock, her cargo has been shipped alongside, and from the fact of its near appearance has caused considerable interest and much speculation. This consists of several boxes tightly bound with iron, and brought by the South Wales Railway. The American Consul attempted to interrogate the Captain as to the nature of the contents of the boxes, to assist in the detention of the steamer accompany him. It need hardly be said the attempt was unsuccessful, and on Saturday morning the splendid steamer steamed down the Channel, not before a scene had occurred, by the agitated manner of the Consul, who arrived at the Docks shortly after 3 o'clock in the morning. The ship has cleared for Nassau with a cargo of woolen goods.

PARLIAMENTARY PROCEEDINGS.

BRAZIL.

In the house of Lords, on the 4th, the Earl of Malmesbury gave notice that on the 18th inst., he would call attention to the state of relations with Brazil.

THE SEIZURE OF THE SCHOONER WILL-O'-THE-WISP.

In the House of Commons, on the same evening, Mr. CRAWFORD asked if any claim had been made upon the Government of the United States for compensation to the owners of the schooner Will-o'-the-Wisp, seized in Mexican waters at Matamoras by the United States cruiser Montgomery, on June 2, 1862, and afterward released by decision of the Prize Court at Key West, on July 19.

Mr. LAYARD said the question involved a statement which had not been proved, and which was liable to great doubt, viz.: that the vessel was seized in Mexican waters. The case was tried in the Court of Key West, and the Court decided that the ship should be released, but at the same time decided that there were sufficient grounds to warrant the seizure of the vessel, and would not give damages or costs.

The only course for the owners to take would be to appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

The Parliamentary proceedings on the 5th were of merely local interest. Lord PALMERSTON made some explanations in regard to the proposed cession of the Ionian Islands to Greece, and said he did not anticipate any opposition to the movement by any of the great Powers.

Negotiations were nearly completed for the transfer of the Hudson's Bay Company's rights and privileges to the British Government.

THE AFRICAN SLAVE TRADE TREATY BILL.

In the House of Commons, on June 2, Lord PALMERSTON, in moving the second reading of this bill, said: It is only just to the United States to draw the attention of the House to this bill. We all know that, for a great number of years, the African Slave-trade was protected by the flag of the United States. Last year, however, the Government of the United States, in the most handsome manner, agreed to a treaty by which that protection was no longer to be afforded. (Hear, hear.) They concurred in those arrangements usual between different Powers, giving a mutual right of search, constituting mixed tribunals for the trial of vessels caught in carrying on the Slave-trade, and making other provisions connected with those adjudications. It was found that the extent of the area to which those arrangements applied was not sufficient. This year, therefore, the Government of the United States agreed to a supplementary article, extending to the neighborhood of Madagascar the right of search, which in the first treaty was confined within too narrow limits. It is due, I think, to the liberality of the United States Government that I should point this out to the House. (Hear, hear.) Last year the measure was passed very much as a matter of form, and without sufficiently attracting the notice of Parliament or of the country. It is no more than justice to the American Government, who have behaved in the most honorable and liberal manner (hear, hear) in regard to this matter, which is of great interest to this country, that the second reading of the bill should be marked by some attention being paid to it. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. CAYE was very glad that so important an addition had been made to this treaty, which constituted almost the only bright spot in the history of the civil distractions which now existed in America. He trusted that immediate measures would be adopted to take advantage of the treaty to close more effectually the avenue of communication with the arch offender, Cuba.

Mr. CESSNOLA and Mr. BUXTON expressed their satisfaction with the Government and the American Government. Mr. TOZARES was of opinion that the discussion should be postponed until the House had an opportunity of considering the bill.

After some remarks from Mr. KINNARD, Mr. HENNESSY and Sir G. GREY,

The bill was read a second time.

FEDERAL RECRUITING.

In the House of Commons, on June 1, in reply to Mr. Herbert, Sir Benjamin Hall said the Government were aware that agents of the Federal Government had been in England, but they did not consider that a great number of young men had certainly gone to America, and, upon inquiry, it was found that their passports merely had been sent, and the Government had reason to suppose that there were Irish in America who had been induced by the Federal authorities to enlist in the Federal army. The Government were following the notice up, and taking active steps to discover the delinquents. (Hear, hear.)

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Brazilian Minister and his family, accompanied by the members of the legation, quitted London for Paris on the 4th inst.

The protocol which formally settles the Greek succession was signed in London on the 5th by the Ministers of the three protecting Powers and by the Danish Minister. The Greek Envoys to Denmark were to be formally received at Copenhagen on the 6th inst.

The official inquiry directed by the Board of Trade into the circumstances attending the loss of the steamer Eagle Stream, was in progress at Liverpool.

The race for the Ascot Cup resulted after a severe struggle in a "dead heat" between Buccaneer and Tim Whiffler. The deciding heat was won by two lengths by Buccaneer. The Prince and Princess of Wales visited the race in state, and the general attendance was unprecedentedly brilliant.

THE POLISH QUESTION.

NOTE FROM MR. SEWARD.

It appears from a St. Petersburgh telegram that France invited the American Government to join the great European Powers in their diplomatic action toward Russia on the Polish question, and the reply of Mr. SEWARD has been published at St. Petersburgh. The Washington Cabinet refused its cooperation, on the ground that America can never deviate from her traditional policy of non-intervention in European affairs, except in cases of evident necessity.

PROGRESS OF THE INSURRECTION.

The insurrection continues active.

The Russians were defeated at Bialobrzeski and Konin, on the 25th and 30th ult., respectively.

Engagements at several places on the Bug are also reported, but the result is not stated.

La France believes that Prince GORTSCHAKOFF will determine the Russian Government to adhere to the proposals of the three Powers.

FRANCE.

It appears that the Moniteur underrated the number of opposition members elected to the new Legislative body, as it is supposed that 25 Independent members have been chosen.

The number of voters who polled for the opposition candidates in Paris was 150,000. In 1857 there were only 97,000. The Ministerial electors in the same period have fallen from 116,000 to 63,000.

There were rumors that M. DE PERSIGNY would probably tender his resignation. The session of the Legislature will be convoked for November, simply for the verification of returns, after which it will adjourn till February next.

The Paris Bourse on the 5th was rather lower. Rentes closed at 69.55.

BELGIUM.

The King of the Belgians is again in a very critical state of health.

PRUSSIA.

Seven papers in Berlin have published a joint declaration preserving their rights in view of the royal ordinance of the 1st inst. relative to the Press. They say that the Government has yet to furnish the nation with proofs of the legality of that measure.

The municipality of Berlin had resolved to send an address to the King, of which the following is a summary: The address calls the attention of His Majesty to the prejudicial consequences of promulgating the recent ordinance on the Press, and of carrying on the Government without a settled budget. It represents the unfavorable influences of the long-protracted constitutional conflict upon the relations of property, trade, and the public credit, and concludes by requesting the King to reestablish the constitutional state of affairs, by a speedy convocation of the Diet.

The Crown Prince and Princess of Prussia arrived at Dantzic on the 5th and paid a visit to the Rathaus, when they were received by the Municipal authorities. The Chief Magistrate having expressed sorrow that circumstances would not permit the manifestation of public rejoicing at the visit of their Royal Highnesses, the Crown Prince replied:

"I also regret that I have come here at a time when disagreement has taken place between the Government and the people, the news of which surprised me greatly. Being absent, I was unaware of the ordinances which have brought about this position of affairs, and took no part in the deliberations when they were resolved upon. But rest assured that I know better than I, who know the noble and patriotic sentiments of the King, that Prussia, under His Majesty's sceptre, is securely approaching the greatness which Providence has marked out for her."

The Chief Magistrate replied to the speech of his Royal Highness by calling on those present to give three cheers for the King and the Crown Prince.

The London Times remarks on the grave appearance of political affairs in Prussia: "The nation sees its representatives contemptuously dismissed, the army illegally increased by extending the time of military service and finally the Press crushed by an arbitrary edict. The Court, no doubt, thinks itself strong enough for such a course, but if even on this Courts have been wrong, and the Sovereign of Prussia may have calculated as ill as many who have gone before him.

The Daily News regards the speech just delivered by the Crown Prince as not much calculated to revive enthusiasm for the Crown, though the Prince does appear to have been aware that some manifestation of opinion—some act that would separate him from the policy of the Government—was proper in his situation.

The Morning Herald thinks the course taken by the Crown Prince calculated to save the dynasty.
